Artist's Sketch Brings Arrest Of Suspect in Rape Cases Here

The rape suspect Princeton police have been searching for has been apprehended.

Chief Michael Carnevale credited a highly-accurate police composite of the suspect and some alert observation by a Borough patrolman, who has been on the force less than a year, with the arrest of Bryant L. Taylor, 23, Pennington Road, Trenton.

Police artist's sketch of suspect Bryant Taylor.

Taylor was arrested at his home at 6:15 Tuesday morning by Detectives Timothy Huizing and Ronald Holliday, who had a warrant charging him with molesting a 19-year old jogger on Nassau Street on October 10. He was held in $5000 bail, charged with assault and lewdness.

Taylor was scheduled to be arraigned later in the day before Borough Judge Philip Carchman on two other charges: raping a 14-year old jogger on Elm Road on October 17 and assaulting a 20-year old Princeton University student October 21 when he reached into her car and grabbed her as she was exiting from a Prospect Avenue parking lot.

In addition, Taylor is wanted by South Brunswick Township police who have a warrant charging him with raping a 16-year old bicyclist October 21 in Kingston. After his arraignment here, he was scheduled to be turned over to the South Brunswick PD for processing.

Essentially, commented Chief Carnevale, Taylor's apprehension was the result of teamwork among the police departments, victims and residents who phoned in pieces of information.

The major break came last Tuesday when rookie Patrolman William Nathan, on car patrol in the Franklin Avenue area, noticed that the driver of a car closely resembled the composite picture of the suspect supplied to the area police departments. The composite had been drawn by State Police artist Det. George Homa from statements taken from the victims.

Ptl. Nathan said later that Taylor was the "spitting image" of the suspect. A comparison of the composite and an arrest picture of Taylor taken at Borough headquarters confirms that Det. Homa had captured an uncanny likeness of the suspect.

Ptl. Nathan stopped the Taylor car and obtained his identification. He passed the information on to the Detective Bureau, which continued the investigation that ended in Taylor's arrest.

"The police are indebted to the victims for reporting their attacks," said Chief Carnevale. "Without that, his arrest would not have followed." Chief Carnevale commented that unreported rapes still far outnumber reported cases.

"We're proud of the co-operate effort between our people and the victims," he said.

He cautioned women in the area, however, that the apprehension of the rape suspect should not encourage them from discarding any preventive measures they may have adopted to guard themselves against similar attacks.

Medvin, van den Blink Win Easily in Borough Litvack and Cherry Capture Township Seats

Republicans and Democrats split the ticket in the Township in Tuesday's election, thereby keeping Township Committee in Republican hands with the same 3-2 majority that has prevailed during the current year.

Winners were high - scorer Democrat Kate Litvack with 2,673 and Republican William Cherry with 2,605.

In the Borough, Democratic incumbents Leona Medvin and Nelson van den Blink retained their seats. Mrs. Medvin ran high with 1,947 and Mrs. van den Blink polled 1,822.

The Township race was a close one. Defeated Democrat David Klein lost to Mr. Cherry by only 59 votes and at one point, as votes were tallied at Republican headquarters with only District Two missing, Mr. Cherry was ahead by one vote. The Klein total was 2,546. Tom Haber, running on the Republican ticket, was low scorer with 2,507.

In the Borough, Republican Priscilla Waring ran ahead on her ticket with 1,200 votes to 1,167 for John Reid.

Voters in the Township won the race to the polls over voters in the Borough: 60.8 percent of the voters, or 5,227, went to the voting booths in the Township. There are 8,604 registered voters in the municipality.

In the Borough, where there are 6,509 registered voters, only 49.3 percent, or 3,210, cast their ballots.

In both municipalities, in this election, the familiar faces brought in the votes. Mrs. Litvack has served on both the Environmental Commission and the Joint Recreation Board and has been active for some years in Township Democratic politics. Mr. Cherry ran unsuccessfully last year, and has been a frequent commentator on public questions during his long residency in Princeton. Mr. Haber and Mr. Klein are both relative newcomers to the community.

In a toast to Mr. Klein after the results were all in, Mrs. Litvack said:

"For a relatively new resident of the Township to lose by only 59 votes to a man who has lived here for 35 years is quite an achievement."

Some Township Democrats were attributing Mr. Klein's defeat to the absentee count. He received 122 absentee votes to Mr. Cherry's 133. Traditionally, absentee ballots are thought to be cast primarily by Republicans because, it is said, more Republicans than Democrats are traveling businessmen or people who take November vacations.

In the Borough, the two incumbents won by a long distance, with a spread of almost 800 votes between the top vote - getter, Leona Medvin with 1,947, and John Reid with 1,167.

Mrs. Medvin ran ahead of her running - mate, Mrs. van den Blink, by 125 votes; in fact, Mrs. van den Blink topped her only in Districts Six and Seven and by narrow leads at that. She received 134 votes in District Six, where most of Princeton's black voters live, to Mrs. Medvin's 130. In District Seven, a cross - section district which comprises both Palmer Square and Humbert Street, Mrs. van den Blink tallied 127 to Mrs. Medvin's 124.

A year ago, the two running - mates were on opposite sides of the political fence. Mrs. Medvin ran as an independent with Republican support for the one remaining year of her late husband's three - year term. Mrs. van den Blink backed her opponent, who lost the race.

In this year's Borough race, the top Republican district was District 8, where Ms. Waring pulled 211 votes and Mr. Reid 228. It is Mr. Reid's home district.

Election Results

It was the second defeat for Ma. Waring, who ran last year. But here again, the fact that she was known to voters may have contributed to the edge she maintained over Mr. Reid, who is new to politics and almost unknown.

Incidentally, Mr. Reid is the father of another defeated Republican — Scott Reid, who ran for Mercer County Freeholder.

In Borough and Township, voters gave overwhelming support to the victory of Governor Brendan Byrne. He won in the Borough by a 2-1 margin — 2,196 to Raymond Bateman's 1,025 — and in the Township by a ratio of 3-2 — 3,107 to Bateman's 1,965.

All the off-beat candidates for governor polled at least one vote. In the Township, Frank J. Primich of the Libertarian Party garnered a sturdy 16, mostly from District 14, where he polled five. Chauncey E. McSpirtt of the Cheap Chauncey, Upstart party, got 18 Township votes, also. His bastions of strength were Districts Four and Seven, where he polled four votes each.

The top minority candidates in the Borough were Chauncey McSpirtt with 11, mostly from District Three, where he got four votes, and District 10 where he collected three. Julius Levin, in the Socialist Labor Party, also polled 11 votes in the Borough, chiefly from District One where he received four votes.

Mr. Primich took 10 Borough votes, two each in Districts One and Two and four in District Three.

On both public questions, Princeton cast strong "yes" votes. The rivers - harbors - public beaches question received 3,210 "yes" votes in the Township (1,073 "no") and 1,970 in the Borough (560 "no"). The medical education question received 3,370 "yes" votes in the Township (921 "no") and 1,998 in the Borough (534 "no").

Wine Talk

by Archie Browne

THE FRUITY AND VERSATILE PORTUGUESE ROSE WINES

The roses of Portugal are enjoying a tremendous acceptance in this country. The reason for this is because the wines are light and decidedly fruity, which appeals to the palate of the freshman wine drinker. Roses are versatile wines, and go well with almost any type of dish. In addition, the price of the wine is very reasonable.

The three best known Portuguese rose wines are: Mateus, Lancers and Alianca. These come in a great part from the "Vinhos Verde" region, and do not reveal with any degree of precision their exact

Princeton Homeowners Face 300% Increase In Sewer Taxes When Bills Fall Due in 1978

Home-owners in both Borough and Township will be hit by a three-fold increase in sewer taxes as a result of turning on the new Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority plant on River Road, the municipalities announced this week. The increase had been expected, and both municipal governments were braced for it.

The 300 percent figure sounds worse than the actual dollar amount. For example, in the Borough, where the average home-owner pays about $20 a year in sewer charges, the annual payment will be about $70.

The new Borough rate will be $10.40 per 1,000 cubic feet of water used, compared to the present rate of $3.20.

The new Township rate will be about $9.96 per 1,000 compared to the present assessment of $3.67.

A "Double Hit." New rates will be reflected in the tax bills of June 1. However, Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley warned as he made the announcement, that taxpayers will have a double hit in the August and November bills to even up the year. After that, the levy will smooth out again to the regular amount.

"Predictions were a three-to-five-fold increase," Mayor Cawley told reporters, "and we're pretty happy we hit around the mid-point."

The new plant was scheduled to "go on line" November 1, but sometime in December now seems a more likely debut. The two Princetons' Sewer Operating Committee must run its own operation: eight pumping stations, the Pretty Brook plant. It is expected - and hoped - that West Windsor and South Brunswick will be able to hook in early in 1979.

The new rate does not include payment of any principal on the Sewer Authority bonds. That will begin in 1979. If the two Princetons are still the only users of the plant in 1979, the rates will have to go up again until South Brunswick and West Windsor connect.

Further Increases. When upstream communities--Pennington and Hopewell Boroughs--connect into the system, costs will go up because it will be more expensive to treat sewage in the two small upstream plants than in the main River Road plant.

George Olexa, secretary of the Borough and Township's Sewer Operating Committee and Borough engineer, explains that treatment upstream will cost more because the streams are so much smaller than the Millstone River into which the main plant will discharge.

Mr. Olexa points out that operating costs for the Authority in 1978 will be $1,100,000. The two Princetons' share is 75 percent, or $825,000. In addition, the Committee must run its own operation: eight pumping stations, the Pretty Brook plant, all the sewer collector lines and the cost of working to correct infiltration and inflow into the leaky old lines.

This costs $261,211, for a total of $1,086,211. The Borough's share is $2,077.77 percent or $580,674. The current figure is $177,952, leading to the new rate of $10.40.

Correcting the leaky lines to stop water from infiltrating and flowing in ("infiltration and inflow" or "I and I") is now under way, and should help reduce the rate, which is calculated on the basis of water consumption. (The overflowing Valley Road manholes are examples of "I and I").

Mr. Olexa says, however, that he can't start on the part of I & I work that involves chemical sealing of manholes until the old sewer plant has closed and its crew is free to do the work. The Borough is still waiting for Federal money to do internal grouting of pipes, tearing up of the oldest pipes, and so on.

Township Committee, at this Wednesday's meeting, is scheduled to introduce the ordinance setting up new rates for that municipality.

Susan Bruns, 20, died of injuries suffered in the crash that occurred shortly before 3 last Wednesday afternoon near the Western Electric research center. ### Your Town Topics This Week Is Different

In order to create greater news space on its first page, TOWN TOPICS this week presents a revision in the appearance of what has for many years been the front and back covers. The familiar "quarter-fold," which carried merely the masthead and a cover story (successor to "Man of the Week") has been retained, but now the fold has in effect been reversed to provide a new look on page 1.

A back cover, or last page, does of course exist, but that, too, has been revised in appearance. Advertisers there will have greater leeway with their layouts, and readers who receive copies by mail will find the address sticker on the masthead at the top of page 1.

The change is the first of a major nature to be effected in TOWN TOPICS' appearance in four years. It was in November, 1973, that the conversion from letterpress ("hot" type, or metal) was made to offset composition ("cold" type, or the use of paper instead of lead.)

together at 87 West Broad Street in Hopewell.

The two nurses, in uniform, were on their way to the Medical Center when their car apparently struck a concrete culvert and skidded into the water-filled drainage ditch.

Ms. Bruns, from Somerville, was a graduate of Immaculata High School. She was a licensed practical nurse at the Medical Center.

A funeral was held Saturday in Somerville for Ms. Bruns, who was buried in the Immaculate Conception Cemetery. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Bruns of 37 Vanderveer Avenue.

Cyclist Hit at PSC. A 10-year old bicyclist, Kelvin Chu, 23 Linwood Circle, was hit by a car early last week near the Acme Market loading area in the Princeton Shopping Center. He sustained abrasions of the leg.

The driver assisted the victim and then reported that she had an appointment and left the scene without identifying herself. The youth told Sgt. Michael Kopliner that he had stopped before entering a line of traffic, looked both ways and proceeded when he saw no cars approaching.

ABOUT RENT....

Ordinance Under Discussion. What to do about a rent-leveling ordinance will be the subject of a special Borough Council meeting this Thursday at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall. Council will act this Wednesday, to extend the present ordinance from December 1 to December 31.

In other Borough matters, Mayor Robert W. Cawley said this week that two vacancies exist on the Joint Civil Rights Commission and one on the Joint Recreation Board. Logan Pemberton and Michele Harrison have gone off the Civil Rights Commission and the Ballard from the Recreation Board.

WATCH THOSE RATES!

Township, to Public Service. Keep rates as low as possible, Township Committee urges the Board of Utility Commissioners in a resolution passed at last Wednesday's Committee meeting.

The board will hold a public hearing this Thursday at 10 a.m. in its offices at 101 Commerce Street, Newark, on a Public Service request which would amount to a 100 percent increase in utility rates.

Committee's resolution commends the board for holding the hearing. It's the first time the board has held a public hearing on a rate increase linked to increased fuel costs, reported Committee member Margaret Broadwater. She told Committee that the state Public Advocate's office has a case before the New Jersey Supreme Court challenging fuel-adjustment increases for public utilities because the increases have been levied without public hearings.

Lawyers in the Public Advocate's office, Mrs. Broadwater continued, say that Public Service probably should get some kind of increase because the company "seriously underestimated" its costs last winter.

Every October 1, she explained, the company must guess what its costs will be. Last winter, Public Service underestimated how much synthetic gas it would need - synthetic costs about three times as much as natural - and was, in addition, confronted with an exceptionally cold winter.

In December, Mrs. Broadwater reminded Committee, the company will ask for a standard rate increase, and perhaps the fuel-adjustment increases allowed by law will be incorporated into the regular rates.

In other business last week,

Heavy precipitation has passed for a while, but the above-average temperatures which have been with us are expected to remain through the weekend. It won't all be dry, however - showers by Friday are a possibility.

Committee continued to debate the wisdom of leasing the old sewer plant to Systech for use as a processing plant for industrial waste that would then be taken next door for disposal through the new sewer plant. Several items are on the list of things Committee wants to know:

- Exactly what materials will be processed, and then cycled through the new Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority plant? "We don't want to flush something vicious through it," Mrs. Broadwater said.

- What would Kingston think of big trucks going through the town on their way to the River Road plant in Princeton? Committee will talk with South Brunswick Township, in which Kingston is located, about the trucks.

- Can the Township get more than the $7,000 to $12,000 a year offered by Systech? Committee consensus is that the figures are far too low. Mayor Josie Hall will talk over these figures with Systech. The discussions will continue this Wednesday.

Committee passed the bond ordinance providing $44,000 for purchase of Ultra High Frequency police radio equipment.

This Wednesday, Committee will hear a report from Traffic Safety on parking in the Medical Center area and a report on parking around the Somerset Farms store on Route 206.

The regular November 16 meeting has been cancelled. Most municipal officials will be attending the annual League of Municipalities convention in Atlantic City.

MONEY, JEWELRY TAKEN

From Ewing Street Home. Jewelry valued at $861 and $5 in cash were stolen last week from the home of Robert J. Boylan, 296 Ewing Street.

Police said that the intruder entered the home through a bedroom window between 8 Thursday morning and 11:30 in the evening. Det. Frank Boccanfusa and Ptl. Peter Savalli are investigating.

Two purses were stolen from a second-floor Nassau Street apartment between 7 and 11 Saturday evening. One of the purses contained a tan wallet with $8 and a checkbook inside, police said.

Entry was gained through a rear bedroom window. Sgt. Ralph Procaccino is investigating.

Progress Reported by University on Plans To Make 24 Apartments Available to Public

Princeton University hopes to start remodeling by the end of the year to create approximately two dozen publicly-available apartments on Nassau Street.

The Planning Board last week approved bulk variances required to convert 92 Nassau Street to joint occupancy use in the Central Business District. The building, on the corner of Nassau and Witherspoon, will eventually contain nine apartments. The two retail areas on the street level will remain.

However, costs have risen since the University first announced the project, and officials must now decide whether the whole thing is financially possible.

In other action the same night, the Planning Board gave the go-ahead for construction of a new Benson Building on Witherspoon and Spring with 16 apartments on top; however, the board asked architects Short and Ford if the Witherspoon side of the building could be less wall-like. The architects agreed to come back with alternative plans.

The University has three sections in its Nassau Street package and for reasons of economy, hopes to work on all three at once. The second part is the row of buildings extending from the Mershon house at 159 Nassau (across from Nassau Interiors) down to the former Nassau Street School, now the University's arts center. The third section is the 4 Mercer Street building (Town Topics), where a complex of zoning requirements still must be resolved.

The Mershon House will be used for University staff housing, according to Grant Green, director of the University's real estate department. Next door, 163 Nassau, where the Audrey Short real estate office is located, will contain professional offices and two apartments.

The building at 167 Nassau, where the University formerly had its counselling services, will be for professional use only. No University offices will be in the building and there will be no apartments.

The former University art department studios at 169-71 Nassau will be converted to four apartments and two stores. At the 173-75 Nassau address, where the diner now is and an antique store used to be, the University will have stores on the street level and four or five apartments upstairs.

Depending on final resolution of the 4 Mercer Street problems, the University expects 22 to 24 new apartments from its three-section package. Mr. Green said this week that market rents will be charged for all, and the apartments will be handled by a commercial rental agent, still to be selected.

At 92 Nassau, there are no plans to alter the tenancy of either Suburban Transit or Nassau Liquors, Mr. Green said. Each is now on a month-to-month basis.

A FULL-TIME PLANNER
Princeton's First. The first full-time, resident professional planner for Princeton started work Monday. His name is Carleton Ryffel, and he began work the day the Planning Board moved its offices — in the pouring rain — into the Valley Road Building from Borough Hall.

The number one job for the new planner is to help in the completion of the housing and land use sections of the Master Plan. Two Planning Board committees have been working on these elements and have welcomed Mr. Ryffel's arrival. The board hopes for public hearings before the end of the year.

After that, he'll work on circulation, community facilities, conservation, recreation and utility elements of the plan. When they have been completed, he will begin the job of drafting the necessary zoning ordinances to implement everything in the new plan.

In addition, according to Planning Board member Elizabeth Hutter, he will handle day - to - day requests for subdivisions and developments of various kinds, thereby becoming familiar with Princeton's regulations by using them as tools.

Mr. Ryffel comes to Princeton from a year's service as Planning Director for Sanibel Island, Florida. Before that, he was zoning administrator and environmental planner in Gainesville, Florida, for three Got an Apartment?

Carleton Ryffel, Princeton's new resident planner, is learning about the town's housing problems the hard way: he is desperate for a place to live.

Mr. Ryffel comes from Florida. His wife and two toddler - age daughters are still there, and presumably will be until he can find a place in — or near — Princeton to live.

"I would like to live in Princeton, rather than outside," he says. "I think this is important for a planner."

Anyone with anything to offer can reach Mr. Ryffel through the office of the Princeton Regional Planning Board, 924-5366.

years. He has a B.A. in geology and an M.A. in Urban and regional planning from Florida State University.

The Planning Board screened about 140 resumes from people seeking the job, and interviewed eight. The salary range is $18,000 to $21,000.

5 STUDENTS CHARGED
With Malicious Damage. Five university students have been charged with malicious damage to property after they were caught allegedly trying to dismantle a street sign at the corner of Vandeventer Avenue and Spring Street.

Excess Rainfall Part of Unusual Weather Pattern

A trough of low pressure moved along the Atlantic seaboard and you know what was in that trough, don't you? Water.

When Dan Mazzarella of Science Associates rowed out to the rain-gauge in his Magnolia Lane back yard at 8 a.m. Tuesday, he saw the 2.53 inches that had filled the gauge since 8 a.m. Monday.

Tallying it up with his waterproof pencil, he found that 3.29 inches of rain had fallen in seven consecutive days. No, it's not a record, but it's more than we usually get in a month.

David Ludlum, Mr. Mazzarella's science associate, says skies won't clear until the trough makes up its mind to move east, out into the Bermuda area. It's anybody's guess when that could be.

"This snowstorm in Colorado and Wyoming—it's brought them another 12 inches—will move over the Great Lakes with some arctic air behind it, and it could clear things up for us by Thursday or Friday," Mr. Ludlum suggests, but he's not really convinced it will happen.

He has just come back from an exhilarating flight over both north and south poles (see elsewhere, "Topics of the

Town") and he rather likes the idea of polar air.

Combined with this trough of low pressure, he continues, we've had a blocking high in the northeast—Maine and the Maritime Provinces of Canada. It's been a kind of dam, keeping the weather from flowing.

Remember how hot it was? That's because warm air was drawn up by the southeast low pressure area. We've been on the south side of that trough. "No polar air for about 10 days," Mr. Ludlum says wistfully, with fond thoughts of the North Pole.

The TOWN TOPICS archivist noted that almost a year ago—in the issue of November 25, 1976—Mr. Ludlum was commenting on the unusually cold autumn that was about to be capped by one of the coldest and DRIEST Novembers in record. Dry! He also reminded readers of that issue that November of 1972 produced 12 inches of rain in a single month.

Hard to see into Mr. Ludlum's crystal ball because of all the clouds, but he says weather forecasters in Washington to whom he has talked, are predicting that this winter won't be quite as cold as last. There will, however, be more snow and some nor'easters.

In case you want to compare notes with Mr. Mazzarella, here's what he got on those seven days:

November 2: .02 inches; November 3: .01; November 4: .17; November 5: .02; November 6: .05 and November 7: .49. November 8 was the 2.53.

sutures were used to close his wound.

The suspect was described as a white male, 5-8 to 5-9½, 180 pounds, clean shaven with light blonde hair and wearing blue jeans and a red-checkered jacket-type coat. Det. Ronald Holiday is continuing the investigation.

STUDENT ARRESTED Inside Princeton High School. Wallace C. Kamens, 21, 3 Erdman Hall, Westminster Choir College, was charged with breaking and entering, after he was arrested at 3:54 Saturday morning by police in a hallway in Princeton High School.

Members of the Borough and Township police and William Karch, the school's superintendent of grounds and buildings, surrounded the school after an alarm sounded. Kamens allegedly told police that he entered the building through an open door.

Mr. Karch told police on Monday that there was an apparent entry off a second floor roof into a tower rest room.

TREE SELECTION

The biggest single reason for unhappy trees and tree owners is selecting the wrong tree for the site, says Sam deTuro of Woodwinds Associates. Before purchasing a tree, the homeowner should consider several things:

1. Climatic Zone - The tree selected should be hardy in Climatic Zone 6.
  2. The tree should be planted under the same or similar light, moisture and wind exposure conditions as it was grown in the nursery.
  3. Soil texture and drainage should be right for the specie as well as similar to that under which the tree has been growing.
  4. The ultimate growth habit and life expectancy of the tree should be known to insure leaving enough room for the tree to develop unrestricted.
  5. The character of the root system should be known to insure against future problems with underground utilities, driveways, sidewalks, patios and other plants.
  6. What insect pests and diseases can be expected with the tree selected? Will the tree selected attract insects which will harm already existing trees and shrubs?
  7. What are the shade characteristics of the tree selected? Will you be able to grow other plants and lawn within the branch spread of this tree?
  8. Will the tree be a nuisance due to excessive leaf fall; pollen allergies; insects - bees; fruit; flowers; sticky dripping; sooty mold?
- Now that you've selected the right tree for your location, watch next week for How To Plant....

DISABLED CAR STRUCK
On The Great Road. A disabled car on The Great Road was struck by another at 3:50 Tuesday afternoon, a tenth of a mile from Pretty Brook Road.

Ptl. Renn Kaminski charged the driver, Gertrude M. Garrett, 82, of Tenacre with careless driving. Susanne Olivier, 23, 54 Rollingmead, was thrown out of the disabled car by the impact, ending underneath the car's rocker panel with her back across the curbing of the Great Road bike path.

The front wheel of the car was resting on the curbing. Had it moved another two inches the car would have come down on the victim and crushed her. She was treated at the hospital for contusions and abrasions and released.

In two other campus thefts, a box containing $300 worth of tools was stolen from Room 13B in the Frick Chemical Lab (no forced entry) and a student had her laundry stolen from the laundry room at Spelman Hall between 10:15 and 11:15 Monday evening. She lost clothing valued at approximately $200.

In theatre and dance groups, children are introduced to acting and drama. The theatre group -- geared to students from middle to high school age -- does improvisations leading to rehearsal of a play to be produced next spring. It is an original play by Princeton seniors Pamela Crowley and Toni Jones.

Dance supervisor is Guillermina (Gigi) Uben, University freshman who has studied in the Alvin Ailey and Martha Graham studios, and is a graduate of the High School for the Performing Arts in New York.

Excursions and field trips are part of the program, such as the trip to the Merabash Black Museum in New Egypt last summer. Boys and girls may be taken by the student staff for sleep-overs on the University campus during a week-end, and they have gone to football games where special rates prevail.

Flight Across 2 Poles Marked by Popping of Champagne Corks

Back from his weekend circumpolar dash around the world, TOWN TOPICS, Oct. 26, Princetonian David Ludlum reports that the flight was like "a 48 hour New Year's Eve Party." The event was in celebration of the 50 years since Pan American Airways inaugurated commercial service from Key West to Havana in 1927.

The "big mixer" to introduce the 150 passengers to one another and to set the festive atmosphere which prevailed during the rest of the flight was a North Pole Party. As the plane approached the top of the world at 3 a.m. London time, the countdown, 10,8,6,4,2...was not for the minutes but for the miles ticking by as the plane hurtled through a dark and cloudy sky. At zero right over volcanic Mt. Erebus which the Pole, champagne corks popped, and one man, who had brought along a Santa Claus whiskers and hat, began throwing candy canes to the passengers.

Mr. Ludlum had the seat by the window that he was in during most of the flight and only fell to the observation deck to have an even better view. The return leg to San Francisco. The other passengers were travel buffs, for the most part, with a few Pan Am officials, some 15 journalists and Miss America, Miss Universe, Miss England and Miss Union of South Africa. A strolling guitar player added to the entertainment, and the stewardesses donned Halloween masks to serve one meal.

Looking down from 40,000 feet he experienced a terrific sense of history as he gazed at the glaciers curling down from the mountains to join the main glacier that Amundson, Scott and Bryd travelled. The flight passed over the American base at the South Pole, the international base at McMurdo Bay on the Ross ice shelf and also over the volcanic Mt. Erebus which was smoking gently.

The shadows and colors as the sun went down were extraordinary, he says, and he took a number of pictures. Mr. Ludlum took occasional 15-minute catnaps during most of the flight.

The food and drink were plentiful and free. Coming into New Zealand for refueling, someone quipped that they had only one hour of gas but 10 hours of champagne left. The flight broke a previous TWA record for a similar route by a cargo flight in 1965 by six hours.

Mr. Ludlum will write a fuller account of his weekend adventure for his new book on U.S. weather.

—Barbara L. Johnson

2 pounds of Cod
1/4 cup flour
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
1 teaspoon paprika
1/2 cup melted butter or margarine

1/2 cup sliced almonds
2 tablespoons lemon juice
4 to 5 drops liquid hot pepper sauce

Broil about 4 inches from source of heat 10 to 15 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. BAZAAR AT MUSEUM
Opens Friday in Trenton. Thousands of handicrafts made by artisans all over the world will be on sale at an extensive folk-art bazaar at the New Jersey State Museum from Saturday through November 20.

The Museum's large second-floor gallery will be the scene of the holiday sale, housing a collection of traditional crafts from Africa, Asia, Europe and the Americas. Included are objects ranging in price from under $1 to several hundreds: folk toys, exotic jewelry, village pottery, baskets of every size, brightly patterned rugs and hangings, tribal sculpture, intricate weavings, fighter kites, unusual ornaments and dozens of other things from the earth's four corners.

The bazaar has been an annual Christmas event at the State Museum since 1973. Characterized as "things to hang on walls, things to play with, things to wear, things to decorate a house, things to give as gifts," it is noted for the careful selection and quality of the crafts that retain ties to age-old ways of making things.

The bazaar opens with a public preview and free refreshments on Friday from 6 to 11. Hours from November 12 to November 20 are 10 to 4, Monday through Friday and 1 to 4:30 Saturday and Sunday. Sales will benefit the Museum; the bazaar is sponsored by the Friends of the New Jersey State Museum.

MUSEUM TO HOLD TEA

To Honor 100-Year Building. The board of trustees of the Hopewell Museum, 28 East Broad Street, Hopewell, will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the construction of the Museum building with an open house and tea Sunday from 2 to 5.

Randolph Stout, a retired farmer, built the brown stone Victorian home for himself and his wife, Carrie Manning Stout, in 1877 and lived there until his death in 1906. His widow sold the home to H.A. Smith who had come to Hopewell about 1900 and began manufacturing special clocks in a business known as Smith Novelty Co. In 1923 Mr. Smith offered to sell the Victorian home of the Hopewell Free Public Library and Museum Association since their own building was too small for the library and historical collections.

The Sarah D. Stout historical collection was given outright to the Association in 1924, and the work of putting it in order began with the help of many friends. By 1965 both the Library and Museum were cramped for space and the Library moved to its present location. In 1967 a large two story addition was made to the Victorian house through the generosity of Dr. David B. Hill who had lived nearby as a boy.

Sculptor Dorothea Greenbaum, 84, Publishing Her First Book

"I am in love with nature--the stones, leaves, shells and all the marvelous living things about us. They supply me with the impetus to 'make something.' I cannot think a form out of my head. It must come from outside--something I can see or touch." That is the spark that starts me on a work that may be totally unrelated to its source. I cannot plan ahead further than the first general direction. From there, a work is on its own. One thing must lead to another.

Dorothea Greenbaum wrote these lines for the Newark Museum some time ago when she realized later that it was her painting teacher at the Art Student's League, Kenneth Hayes Miller, who had, by his insistence on form, made her develop a great interest in her as his student first at the New York School of Fine and Applied Design and had taken her on Saturdays to the Metropolitan Museum of Art to see the great Greek casts.

Mrs. Greenbaum is best known to Princeton residents for the "Girl With the Bird" that stands in classical grace outside the children's room of the Public Library, but her stature and following extend much further. In recognition of the fact that she is in her 85th year and is publishing her first book of drawings, the B'nai B'rith Women are honoring her with a champagne reception at their annual art show Saturday, November 19, at Grover's Mill Gallery.

Born and raised in New York City, Mrs. Greenbaum was a painter for 18 years before she started sculpture. It wasn't until she was 33, and very sick after the birth of her second child, that a friend brought her some clay and she 1931. In 1936 as a founding member of the Sculptor's Guild, she helped organize New York City's first outdoor sculpture exhibit in a vacant lot. Helen Keller and Eleanor Roosevelt were among those who came to see it.

During the war, while living in Washington, she expanded her technique, which was always self-taught or absorbed from other sculptors, to include the more physically demanding art of carving directly into stone. Later she took up hammered lead and is one of the few sculptors in the country who work in this medium, which is ordinary roofing material and which has its own inherent stretching and breaking points.

Works by Dorothea Greenbaum are in museums (such as the Whitney, the Philadelphia Museum of Fine

IT'S NEW To Us

NEW STORE SPARKLES
With Watches, Jewelry. You'll find a choice selection in watches and jewelry and affordable prices at Rock'L Jewelers, which just opened at 26 Witherspoon Street.

The shop takes its name from its young owner, Bill Rock, who was nicknamed "Rock'L" by his classmates. "It has a nice ring to it," says Bill Rock, who has always opened and managed shops for other companies until now.

Watches. The shop carries the popular lines of watches for men and women - Timex, Seiko, Bulova Accutron for men, $12.95 - $300, and Timex, Seiko and the La Petite Collection from Bulova for women, $12 - $275.

In the middle of the price range in men's watches, you'll find Casiotron by Casio, a digital watch made of stainless steel with a yellow gold-filled case. It operates with quartz crystal oscillation and has a liquid crystal dial. Casiotron is called the computer watch, because it is extremely accurate and gives a constant readout of the hour, minutes, seconds, day and date. Prices $90 - $150.

Silversmith. A young woman silversmith does special order work for Rock'L. Her pieces are contemporary and quite lovely. Taking two strands of silver, she twists them into bracelets and earring of striking design. Bracelets $15, earrings $12 up. A clover-leaf pendant on a snake chain is inlaid with mother-of-pearl and turquoise, $40.

This artist likes to use jasper, sometimes called a landscape stone, because the muted color striations of soft green, beige, brown, look very much like a desert scene. Mounted in silver and hung on a silver chain, it makes an unusual and beautiful pendant, $80.

Religious Jewelry. Rock'L has a sizeable collection of religious jewelry in sterling silver, 14k gold and gold-filled saints, crosses, stars of David. A particularly attractive hand-engraved cross and its fine link chain are gold-filled and sell for $17.95. A star of David and its chain in 14k gold is $29.95.

Jewelry for Men includes 14k gold and gold-filled neck chains in snake, rope and link styles, $50 and up for 14k gold; $15 and up for gold-filled. A suave collection of men's rings in 10k gold exhibits birthstones, initials, signets, black star sapphires, cat's eyes, $45 and up. Also available in 14k gold.

Jewelry for Women features a fine collection of jeweled rings - opals, cameos, jade, star sapphires, pink and red coral, cat's eyes, birthstones, in both contemporary and traditional settings. A feminine, flower-like opal ring in 10k gold is $49.95.

Neck chains in 14k gold are here in a variety of lengths and styles. An "S" or serpentine 14k gold ankle bracelet is $19.95, wrist bracelet $14.95, neck chain $29.95. Dainty little gold-filled pendants with their chains, come in the shape of clovers, hearts, ovals, hexagons, each carrying a semi-precious stone - emeralds, rubies, sapphires, $12.95 - $16.

Gold-filled bracelets attract the eye in pearl, jade, ivory. Small, carved ivory roses on a bracelet chain are $9.95. Narrow, gold-filled bangles are $15.95, plain; $22.95, engraved design. Open-link charm bracelets in 14k gold are $39.95, gold-filled $19.95.

Diamonds are displayed as dazzling solitaire engagement rings in various cuts and styles, $200 and up. Engagement ring and wedding band sets blaze with diamonds mounted in platinum, 14k gold or white gold, $230 and up. The paired rings hook together so they don't slide around on your finger.

Diamond split guards embrace your diamond engagement ring or other jeweled rings to create a gorgeous cocktail ring, $200 and up. Cocktail rings in combinations of diamonds with rubies or opals, sapphires, emeralds begin at $200. Pave style diamonds sparkle in rings and pendants. Mounting bracelets have settings, but no stones, to leave room for yours.

The shop will clean your watch for $12 - $15 depending on make, and provide every type of jewelry repair. Custom work in gold and silver, using precious and semi-precious stones will be a specialty.

FABRICS. IMAGINATION

At Contemporary Impact. Rie Hoge-Jensen is a creative little person whose imagination takes her far beyond ordinary limits. She is an artist who uses fabrics as her medium and can suggest many unusual ideas for each of the materials at Contemporary Impact.

You will find original designs here that you won't find anywhere else. Designs that become tangible articles of clothing or home furnishings through Rie's skillful fingers and the help of her sewing machine. She graciously shares her ideas and shows you how she turns them into reality.

Fabrics. The shop is well-stocked with fabrics, both American-made and imported from around the world. The Mira-X fabrics are designed by a Dane; abstracts in vibrant colors, coordinated in large and small prints of the same design. $19 - $20-yard. A large print makes a wall-hanging; a small print is more suitable for a pillow.

French cottons in small patterns adapt to men's ties, pillows, scarves, blouses. $5.50-yard, 51" wide. Real batiks from Indonesia, $8.50-yard or batik prints from Holland $7-yard, in blues or browns, make attractive place mats and napkins, smocks, skirts, pillows.

Scenic prints, ideal for stretched wall-hangings, are either designs that delight children with their bright colors and story-telling ability or more sophisticated designs that appeal to adults.

Wall Hangings. Selecting a fabric, you can make a stretched wall-hanging or Rie will make one for you, charging $4 to make a large hanging, $2.50 for a small size. The fabrics are $4.50 - $20-yard and 36" to 55" wide.

Fabrics are also sold by the inch, so you can buy only as much as you need. Stretcher pieces are in stock in all sizes.

Clothing. Many appealing articles of clothing have been designed and made by Rie. Aprons in colorful vinyls are $12.75 for women, $5.75 for children. A mother-daughter duo in red vinyl with white hearts would make Christmas cooking a delight.

Warm sherpa vests for children and adults reverse to prints or appliqued denims. Pre-shrunk, machine washable and dryable. Children's sizes 2 - 10, $17.50. Adults sizes - small, medium, large, $27.50.

The Swedish "Big Shirt" is made by Rie in one size for $38, in French cottons or

Princeton Regional School HIGHLIGHTS

PARENT and community involvement in the schools now have meaning in a very concrete way. Preparations have begun for the scheduled accrediting evaluation of Princeton High School by the Middle States Association in November 1978. A full year is needed to complete a self-study report required by the Association. PHS is evaluated every ten years. They interview students, staff, administration; sit in classes, weigh what they see against the self-study prepared by the high school. At the end of their visit they report orally to the faculty and staff - criticisms as well as commendations. Then a written report comes from the Middle States Association with the accreditation status. Committees are now being formed to study areas from which the Middle States Association requires reports.

CITIZENS ARE INVITED TO PARTICIPATE ON THESE COMMITTEES. Meetings will be held on Wednesday afternoons, 1:30 to 3:00 beginning on January fourth, for approximately eight weeks.

- The committees are:
- Philosophy and Objectives
- School and Community
- Staff and Administration
- School Facilities
- Student Activities
- Media Services
- Guidance

Please sign for the committee of your choice at PRS main office with Mr. Joyce Warren, call 924-5801 for further information.

MRS. STECCHINI, head of the PRS English Department, spoke to the Student Council about the English program. She said that the basic goal of her department is to teach students that language is our means of communication and, therefore, the need for accuracy and order is great. English, Mrs. Stecchini said, has a great importance for the future in a world where survival will be dependent on our sharing a vision of common humanity. This vision is what each author presents in his own personal terms - as Solzhenitsen says - "with his own crooked eye."

Student Council members made several comments on the English courses now offered. All students were asked, through their student council representatives, to express their views on their experience in English to their respective English teachers.

THE STUDENT Council is sponsoring CROP, a walk for hungry students. Solicit sponsors who agree to pay them a certain sum for the number of miles the students walk.

HOUSE 4 (Hammond-Henning) at JW have delved into the African society, government and arts, both past and present, as part of their studies during the first quarter of the school year. The teachers and students took what they termed a "multi-sense, cultural" approach to the continent. In a related art unit, tribal masks were researched and then constructed from papier maché; dance, drama and legends were integrated with this part of the unit. To culminate the work a festival was held. House 10 was invited to participate and joined forces for a morning-long display. The children prepared native dishes for a buffet; everything from soup to nuts (and including both soup and nuts) was sampled. A recipe book was compiled for each student to keep and use. Dance (with native drum rhythms), drama improvisation of African folklore, movies of myths and legends and display of artifacts were combined in the program. Students wore native costumes - some authentic and others created by the wearers.

Many of the masks are now on display in the JW commons area.

FIELD trips make for varied learning experiences. House 3 at JW recently visited the art exhibit at Squibb and were later able to see the building's science facilities on a specially guided tour. Miss Taylor's first grade class at RS visited the home of Mrs. Hilda Wagner, puppeteer, artist and teacher. The children were fascinated by her vast collection of puppets and masks from all over the world.

BOOK WEEK will be November 14-18 at RS. PTO Library and chairperson Allison Hankison is coordinating an interesting program with the support of parents, teachers and students. Highlights of the week will include appearances of local authors, displays and a book swap for children.

BEST wishes go to Katherine Coffee, JW librarian, and Al Procaccino, JP custodian as they retire from their PRS duties. We'll miss them - the smiles, the cautiously guarded reprimands at times, but, most of all, their dedication to so many Princeton children over a combined total of 62 years!

A Great Neighbor Is Gone.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
May I note in this important section of the newspaper the passing of an outstanding Princetonian, Joseph J. Redding.

Mr. Redding was a friend and a neighbor. He was a lifelong resident of our community.

A former Borough Council member and Chairman of the Housing Authority until his death this week, he served our town diligently and with greatness of thought. Our municipality must be justly proud of Mr. Redding who devoted talent and time to affairs of local government.

Surely, it is due to the efforts of such people that democracy can be a success in decentralized political units. Rising above the snare of pettiness inherent in small-town politics, Mr. Redding could see the morescopic importance of the problems faced by individual people. He was unfettered by personal ambitions. He exemplified the highest ideals of polity.

I mourn the passing of a friend and all of us in Princeton have lost a great neighbor who was a strong pillar of the community.

Balancing Act Essential.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following is the text of a letter I have sent to Township Mayor Josie Hall:

Thank you for your reply to my letter regarding Medical Center parking and the request by the Medical Center for temporary help with the acute parking problem that will develop while the new garage is being constructed.

I am sorry that it is not possible for me to be present at Township meetings because of scheduling problems related to a busy practice and other responsibilities to the hospital and to my family. I must, therefore, rely on accounts of your meetings as published in the two local newspapers. Since both papers reported substantially the same facts, I assumed them to be correct.

If you do not feel that the two local papers are providing accurate coverage, I suggest you take this up with them.

Regarding employee parking, the hospital has offered to bar employees from their regular Franklin Street lot and allow patients and visitors to use it. In turn, the hospital has requested help from you to allow employee parking near the pool and tennis courts, which are further from the hospital. You have offered some relief in this direction, but I do not feel enough, since you have limited the number of spaces and may not allow any spaces during the swimming season.

Experience has shown that if adequate parking is not provided for employees, they will somehow manage to get it anyway. They arrive at work earlier and are familiar with the local streets. They will manage to park near the hospital and, thus, create a terrible mess.

It is indeed the "old and the sick" who will end up with the parking problem, as noted in my previous letter, and, anyway, the hospital cannot function without its employees. It is their skill and dedication that provides this community with the excellent care offered by the Medical Center.

Their needs must also be weighed in the "judicious" process you and all governing bodies must go through in arriving at decisions. I hope that you will not bar employees from the pool lot during the swimming season. That lot is usually full only on weekends and holidays, when the hospital need is the least.

Lastly, please bear in mind that this is only a temporary situation. The new garage should solve the parking problem once and for all (we hope!).

Dear Mayor Hall: I am sorry if my letters provoke you. Politics is not a game for the thin-skinned. I have always considered you to be an able and conscientious public official, and, in fact, I am one of your supporters. There is no way you can keep all of your constituents happy—just continue the "judicious balance."

A Fine Fire Department
To the Editor of Town Topics:
We would like to commend to you the volunteer Firemen and Firewomen of this community.

Watching them in action last week fighting the fire that engulfed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tadlock on Green Street (TOWN TOPICS, Nov. 2), it was amazing to see how fast they responded in view of the fact that this was at a time when people were getting home from work. The firefighters were there at the source in just a few minutes.

We also would like to commend them for being so concerned with the safety of spectators. Immediately, they roped the area off to keep the large crowd back out of danger. Watching them, we realized how dangerous their jobs are and how many risks are involved.

We salute, you, the Firemen and Firewomen of Princeton.

Questions for School Board.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Another school year has begun, and most of the headaches still remain. The inner circle apparently would like to keep attention concentrated on only one of these headaches — MONEY. Again, we are expected to believe that the only important problem of the schools is money — and of more, always more.

But the fact is that money is not the most important question confronting the Princeton Regional Schools. Relatively speaking, it is just a red herring. The big question is: What do we get for our money — $8,000,000 a year? When do we start climbing down from that ridiculous and unjustifiable peak of about $2,500 per pupil per year?

Then there is the question of who is going to run the schools — illiterate labor unions or the school board? Just now they are being run by the labor unions.

Next, is the question of what to do about a school board in which more than a majority of the members go along blindly with the unions and therefore disregard their real responsibilities while violating their oath of office. They are supposed to represent the community, but they don't.

Then there is the question of what to do about the absence of any real program of education and especially one that sets forth what is going on in terms of objectives and what are measured results on a pupil level.

A separate aspect of the process of abandoning ignorance to take up dreams is the fantastic setup according to which executives who are a part of management are unionized and collectively bargain with themselves. No wonder so many are in the $28,000 - $32,000 category even though most are not needed and most are not worth half of what they receive.

There are other conflicts of interest of which but one more will be mentioned here. It is the ridiculous statement of a school board member to the effect that "We have eliminated any semblance of an adversary relationships in the Princeton schools." Aren't dreams wonderful!

Finally, however, it should be noted that the money problem of the schools is not just that of raising the limit on the amounts available to be spent. The "CAPS" situation relates to a higher limit on expenditures. There is a loud silence on the much more important question of a lower limit - that of reducing expenditures. This is more important in the case of the Princeton Regional Schools than in the schools of other districts in Mercer County. So it should be said that the number one financial problem of the Princeton schools is not more money, but too much - how to cut expenditures from that extortionate average of approximately $2,500 per pupil per year.

The quality of what is going on in the Princeton Regional Schools has been in a declining trend for at least a decade. It is largely a flight from ignorance to dreams and a repudiation of their stock in trade - knowledge.

Alienation of the community, too, has gone much too far. One who inquires among Princeton's so-called affluent society cannot but be appalled at the total lack of interest in schools, and especially on the part of those who do not have children in school.

Finally, in this only partial outline, there is the lack of any semblance of accounting for stewardship by way of interpreting to the community what is to be done, how much, and what the near-term objectives of the program may be. Evidently, we are expected to admit that results and costs in our $8,000,000 - a - year expenditure are none of our business!

Although there is little of favorable nature to be found in the Princeton school situation, one must in fairness note an outstanding feature in which there may be grounds for some hope and encouragement. It is in the promise of a bright and shining new superintendent. He will have to muster talents suggesting Superman, and will have to exercise supreme patience. But he looks very good and should have all possible assistance and encouragement.

BUILDING SOLD

By Cook to Nassau Savings. Ralph D. Hulit, Board Chairman of the Nassau Savings and Loan Association, has announced the purchase of 186-192 Nassau Street building from the Cookson Corporation. The property has been owned by Edmund D. Cook since 1938 and has been utilized for real estate and general business offices.

Nassau Savings' President, Walter B. Foster, Jr., said that the purchase culminated a long search for a suitable permanent location for the Association's main office. Mr. Foster noted that Nassau Savings was founded in April 1924 in the First National Bank of Princeton.

In December 1954, he was appointed secretary and, at that time, when the Association moved to 174 Nassau Street, it had assets of $855,000. The location was formerly the Rockwood Dairy and is now the Christian Science Reading Room. By 1964, the Association's assets had grown to $9,000,000 and it moved to its present location at 194 Nassau. Current assets are not in excess of $55,000,000.

"We are very happy with this land purchase and thank Ed Cook for his cooperation and assistance," Mr. Foster said. There are no plans for an immediate move. The Association's directors will consider various alternatives for meeting Nassau Savings' future space needs during the coming months, before any decision is made. The Association also owns 44 Hightstown Road, where its Princeton Junction branch is located, and leases space in the Montgomery Shopping Center for its Montgomery office.

"YES" TO APARTMENTS

On Nassau and Pine. The Borough Zoning Board, by a 5-1 vote, gave its approval last week to Anthony P. Sannino for construction of four apartments in a new second story to be built on top of the one-story building on the northwest corner of Nassau and Pine. John McGoldrick cast the negative vote.

Mr. Sannino told the board he plans four one-bedroom apartments with entrance from a rear court off Pine Street. Two of the units would be lit by skylights, all would have windows overlooking Nassau. He told the board he regarded them as "luxury" units.

By its action, the board approved Mr. Sannino's parking arrangements: four spaces for apartment tenants in the Hurley Building next to the Pink Elephant liquor store.

Under the zoning ordinance, Mr. Sannino had to show either hardship, or practical difficulties, and the board decided he did indeed face practical difficulties in that the usual setback requirements would be impossible for a new second story.

Pierre Coutin is Mr. Sannino's architect. The project, when it has more definite plans, must go before the Planning Board's environmental design review board.

PRINCETONIAN CHARGED

With Manipulating Stock. W. Jeffrey Maiden, 2 Cotswold Lane, former vice-president of the trust department at First National Bank, has been charged with manipulating the common stock of International Systems & Controls Corp.

According to a suit filed by the Securities and Exchange Commission in a federal court in New York City, Mr. Maiden, three other individuals and an investment advisory service in Somerville are charged with creating "a false and misleading appearance of active trading" in International Systems stock, on the American Stock Exchange.

The First National Bank was not cited in the complaint. Maureen Gopil, director of public relations at the bank, said that Mr. Maiden had left the employ of the bank in April to take a position with a New York City banking institution. "The complaint," she said, "is a personal matter between Mr. Maiden and the SEC and has nothing to do with First National."

The SEC cited more than a dozen transactions it said were undertaken by the defendants that "involved no change in beneficial ownership." The complaint did not state the purpose of the transactions, but such trading is an attempt to generate activity on a positive side in a stock that has been depressed. The SEC said the stock transactions in question were brought to its attention by the Amex.

ACQUISITION PLANNED

Of Systemedics. Equifax, Inc., Atlanta-based provider of a variety of information services, has announced entering into a Letter of Intent for the acquisition of Systemedics, Inc. for an aggregate consideration of $2,350,000. Other terms of the acquisition have not yet been negotiated.

Systemedics, Inc. provides automated billing and related services to the medical profession and is based in Princeton Air Research Park on Route 206. The acquisition is subject to regulatory approval as well as approval of the Boards of Directors of the two companies and shareholders of Systemedics. William Krause of 104 Library Place is president of Systemedics.

Equifax, traded on the New York Stock Exchange, closed Monday at 27 3/4.

TRAINING COMPLETED

By Staff of May Agency. Realty World-Laurence R. May, Inc. has announced completion of Realty World's training course in Professional Listing and Marketing by members of the sales staff.

The sessions covered proper utilization of the Realscope Property Boards and other marketing aids used exclusively by Realty World brokers. Mr. May accompanied Karen Hale and Ret Campbell to four days of training, instruction and workshops held at Realty World's Regional Headquarters in Broomall, PA.

Computerized Age Offers Solution To Golfers Rained Off the Course

Golfers know the feeling only too well. It's time for the weekly foursome and its raining.

Someone's 19th hole rumination might go like this: instead of rainy New Jersey, wouldn't it be great to be in sunny California playing famed Pebble Beach. Well you can. Or, if you prefer, the Congressional Country Club course in Washington, D.C.

Grab your clubs and head for Route 206 and Alan Niederlitz's new place in the Montgomery Shopping Center. Thanks to a happy amalgamation of sensors, electronics and computers, you can play either course, watch your shot take flight on each stroke and imagine you are rubbing shoulders with Jack Nicklaus.

It's called Golfomat. It's an electric, indoor simulated golf machine and it is as close to playing outdoors as modern gadgetry can devise.

Your Own Clubs. It works like this. Using your own clubs and ball, you drive toward a screen in front. There are canvass sides and ceiling. Pictured on the approximately 10-foot square screen is the actual Pebble Beach course-hole by hole. Across the bottom in white lettering is the hole number, distance and par.

When you hit the ball, you see its flight on the screen. Hook, the ball will appear to the left; slice, and it will appear on the right. Miss the screen entirely and an out-of-bounds light will flash.

Beneath the tee area is a microphone which picks up the sound of the hit. Sensors behind the screen measure the force. The information is relayed to computers which compute the distance.

The length of the drive appears in a number on the screen on the lower left. At the lower right is the remaining distance to the green. When players reach the green they flip a button from play to putt. After everyone has puttied out, a picture of the next hole fills the screen.

There is a regular play button for women, a tournament one for men. One thing the machine doesn't do is keep score. Each keeps his own on a scorecard.

"It's a super way to learn to play golf," said Mr. Niederlitz, who was the pro at Springdale from 1962 through 1969 and more recently at the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis.

"Obviously, it's not going to supplant playing outside," continued Mr. Niederlitz, "but in winter when you want to play or take lessons to improve your game, it is an enjoyable way to play. That's why I decided to get into this; I happen to like golf very much."

It takes about two hours for a foursome to go around, Mr. Niederlitz said. The cost is $5 per person for 18 holes. For those who feel the need to work on eliminating a slice or straightening a hook, Mr. Niederlitz will be available for lessons.

The Golfomat machines are unique. "As far as I know, they are the only ones in the metropolitan area," says Mr. Niederlitz, who added that they are very successful in Asia and Europe. He foresees leagues forming to play during the winter. He plans to be open at least five nights a week.

Located next door to the Montgomery Theater, the full name of his enterprise is Alan Niederlitz's Professional Golf and Tennis Shops. He sells clubs, shoes, tennis racquets, apparel—"everything you can think of in either sport."

The Most interesting thing about

BANK BY PHONE<sup>SM</sup>

is Interest.

Bank-by-Phone is a new service from Princeton Bank and Trust Company that lets you transfer money to your checking account from your savings account by phone! To see how it can add interest and convenience to your banking, just check these facts.

1. Transfer to convenience with interest.

Now your money can earn interest right up to the minute you need it. A quick phone call to our special Bank-by-Phone number and you can transfer the amount you need from savings to checking (minimum transfer $100) without leaving your home. Of course, you can use Bank-by-Phone to transfer money from your Regular Checking Account to your Statement Savings Account, too.

2. Save, check and earn.

All you have to do is have a Princeton Bank Regular Checking Account and a Princeton Bank Statement Savings Account.

Then you can keep most of your cash in your Statement Savings Account earning 5% interest. And there's another way you can save, too. Just keep a minimum balance of $1,000 in your savings account and your Regular Checking Account is free of all service charges.

3. How to get the convenience of checking with the interest of savings.

Once you have a Princeton Bank Regular Checking and Statement Savings Account, all you need to start banking by phone are the right numbers.

First you need a "Secret" access number known only by you and Princeton Bank. We call it a PIN or Personal Identification Number. It's a four digit number which you select and then use when you want to transfer money by phone.

Then all you need is the special Bank-by-Phone telephone number to start banking the convenient way.

4. We think you'll find real interest in our new Bank-by-Phone service.

Start banking the easy way. Bank-by-Phone. Just visit the Princeton Bank office nearest you and if you don't already have them, open a Princeton Bank Regular Checking Account and Statement Savings Account. Then before you know it, you'll have the convenience of checking, the interest of savings and be able to bank in the comfort of home.

For additional information call us Monday through Friday between the hours of 9 to 5 at (609) 924-4777.

HOW THOSE UNITED FUND DOLLARS WORK

Got a Dollar?

It will admit a youth to the year-long career counselling Institute at the Paul Robeson Cultural Arts Center. (Formerly the Princeton Youth Center).

Or ..... It will buy infant formula for two days. (Children's Home Society)

How About a Couple of Bucks?

That will buy a one-year membership in the Cub Scouts or Boy Scouts.

I Just Happen to Have Six Dollars.....

That's the cost of a one - hour bath routine for someone (rall, elderly and senile. (Princeton Community Homemaker - Home Health Aid Service).

What Will Ten Dollars Buy?

A week-end camping trip for one Girl Scout.

Fifteen Dollars Isn't Much.,

Not for you, maybe, but it will give one kid swimming lessons and who knows? Those lessons just might save that kid's life. (Hightstown - East Windsor YMCA).

It will also help to pay for a family therapy session in the home of a first - grader suffering from parental neglect. (Catholic Welfare Bureau - Family Growth Program).

Well, you get the idea. The point is, the more the better, but even a little bit sure helps.

Can You Do Anything These Days for Twenty-five?

Yes, indeed. The Red Cross could add it to the emergency kitty for a family whose home has been destroyed by fire.

And it would help a child who isn't eligible for Title XX financial assistance at the Princeton Nursery School.

For Another Seven Dollars .....

Your $32 will help pay for eight hours of motor skill instruction for children who have co-ordination troubles or learning disabilities. (Princeton YMCA).

Why Not Make It Fifty Dollars?

Relatives of someone who is terminally ill, need all the help they can get. Family Service can provide five counselling sessions (on a sliding scale) for $50.

.....and for Sixty Dollars.

The Red Cross' "Meals on Wheels" could provide two meals a day for a whole month to an impoverished senior citizen.

Here's Two Hundred and Fifty

Free health programs, like taking the "Betsy" breast self-examination mannequin out into the community. (Princeton YWCA).

"I want to tell you how effective your newspaper is - almost TOO effective! the advertiser reported to us. "I had over 50 calls the first day - the phone never stopped ringing, and we rented it almost immediately."

Results from ads in TOWN TOPICS have been a resounding story for more than 30 years. And more than incidentally, the price hasn't even doubled since we began to publish in 1946 - it was $1.25 then and only $2 for 20 words now. # Princeton Lions, Marking 50th Anniversary, Have Long History Of Charitable Work and Aiding Wide Variety of Civic Projects

CHARTER LIONS: in this photograph taken in the early 1930's in the Orran Jack Turner studios of 22 early Liona Club members, Mr. Turner, who was the first president, is seated in the front row center. Other charter members were, in alphabetic order, Edward V. Baldwin, R.C. Brown, Arthur W. Caaa, Walt F. Conover, Harry A. Farr, Edward A. Frohling, J.B. Grovar, B.L. Gulick Jr., John H.R. Gulick, Robert D. Harria, Jack Honora, Foster D. Jamison, Frank Kane, Harry H. Karr Jr., Myron E. LaVake Sr., William R. Lewis, Morris Maple, Thomas J. Mulvay, James W. Murray, Donald Pettit, Fred A. Struve, Edward A. Thorne and Frank Warren. Can you match names with faces?

It is appropriate that the Princeton Lions Club celebrate its 50th anniversary this Saturday with a dinner dance in the Prince William Room of the Nassau Inn. It was in the old Nassau Inn on Nassau Street that the club began holding its weekly luncheon meetings in November, 1927, and the practice, transferred to the present Inn when Palmer Square was built in 1937, has continued to the present.

Sponsored by the Trenton Lions Club, the Princeton Lions had 24 charter members, men whose names have long been associated with the business activities they represented. Orran Jack Turner, the photographer, was the first president; Myron E. LaVake Sr. the jeweler, and Harry A. Farr, whose hardware store was long a part of the Princeton scene, were the first and second vice-presidents, and Foster D.

Jemison, insurance agent, was secretary-treasurer. Frank Kane was Lion Tamer, and Jack Honore whose barbershop still bears his name was Tail Twister.

One of the club's most successful ventures was its campaign in the 1930's for the widening of the bridge that leads from Washington Road across Penn-Central tracks in Princeton Junction. When the construction was completed in 1939, Lions club officers were on hand for the ribbon-cutting ceremonies along with the mayors of both Princetons.

A news account of the day editorialized by saying that the new bridge "sounds the death knell of a flimsy, dilapidated and dangerous old crossing that has been a menace to every vehicle passing over it and a disgrace to the county and state--a veritable death dtrap." The Lions also pressed for the widening of the Princeton-Hightstown Road and for improvements to the Kingston bridge over the Millstone River.

Christmas in Palmer Square. The Lions will also be remembered by countless Princeton children and their parents for bringing Christmas to Palmer Square. William R. "Buster" Lewis was manager of the Nassau Inn and a charter Lions member. With the cooperation of Palmer Square Inc., the Lions placed a special Santa's Mailbox outside the Post Office, trimmed the big spruce tree in the middle of the Square and held a community carol sing on Christmas Eve. In each of the upper windows around the square shone a single lighted candle, and at the conclusion of the carols, Santa Claus--Lions member Martin Mains--magically appeared at one of the chimneys wishing all a Merry Christmas.

Another favorite Lions event was the annual Easter Egg Hunt, which was held for more than 25 years. The Lions also sponsored a Little League team for a number of years, and just last spring attempted to donate lights for a little league field behind the shopping center.

However, the main thrust of the Lion's activities as a service club is for sight conservation and aid to the blind. Lions members collect used eye glasses for use in countries such as India and pay for eye glass prescriptions for the needy here. The Delaware Valley eye bank was founded by Lions Clubs as a center where one can will one's eyes after death to be used in cornea transplants.

The Lions Club also supports a number of scholarships for graduating high school seniors. These awards now total between $4,000 and $5,000 annually for some eight students and are made for as many years as needed to help a young person complete higher education. One scholarship is named in memory of the Rev. Guy Bensinger, pastor of the Dutch Neck Presbyterian Church for

Lavishly-Set Musical at McCarter Disappoints As It Falls Short of Its Numerous Possibilities

"The Utter Glory of girls; pleasant songs by Mr. Morrissey Hall," current Gesner; a cast of 26, mostly offering of the McCarter hyperactive schoolgirls; some Theatre Company, is a charming dancing; some beautiful big halloo that funny moments. doesn't get off the ground.

This new musical by Clark Gesner has a massive, multi-level, obviously expensive setting by Howard Bay that represents the interior of a baronial English mansion converted into a school for

That just about wraps up the good news--and even that news is not unqualifiedly good. The large cast and the magnificence and solid craftsmanship of the set, all carved oak and stained-glass windows, accentuate the flimsiness of the play.

And it had sounded so can only expect more of the same; the same ultimately boring aimlessness, wordiness and prodigal waste of actors' talents and our time; and, what's more serious, of our energy: of the special kind of concentration one expects, and wants, to spend on even a very light-hearted play.

Patricia Falkenhain madly overplays the headmistress, but what else can she do with a character who, being unmotivated, is neither believable nor interesting? To keep things looking alive in the absence of real life, she falls back on mindless animation.

The best character in "Morrissey" is the headmistress's long-suffering promising! A romping comedy with music by the talented Triangle Club alumnus and author of "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown," who described it in advance as "light-hearted but not sappy."

News Of The THEATRES

Tell-Tale Evidence. Signs that "Morrissey" is not going to work are evident early. To some, the curtain's rising on that breathtaking set is disquieting. Does a good show need--can it live up to--so much carpentry? Can we trust the producing taste that dictates that kind of expenditure for a set?

And then there are the small jokes: a girl's being dressed down by the headmistress for running in the corridor, and then told to "run along," and, of course, running; the headmistress standing in the door of her office and insisting that her secretary call her on the intercom; jokes so small they should have been cut in or before rehearsals, jokes whose survival warns us we are in for an evening of self-indulgent cuteness.

The cuteness rises to a crescendo in Act 2 with the introduction on stage of a cannon and a tank in the madcap intramural wars of the girls of Morrissey Hall.

As a piece of writing for the stage, "Morrissey" has faults more fundamental than its cuteness, which might--just might--have been tolerable had it been a part of something larger. But "Morrissey" has no size, no thrust, no shape. The central character, the headmistress, has no motivating hunger to give the play a goal.

Missing Ingredients. There is action aplenty, but, in the absence of a goal, no forward movement, no suspense. When Act 1 finally ends we feel no urge to see something specific happen in Act 2, no titillating fear that it will not happen. We secretary, who does have a clear and understandable hunger which she describes in the evening's best song: she wants to complete her education in art history, and work in a museum. (Mr. Gesner clearly has a mind and a heart; why has he done so little with them in the show as a whole?)

Good characters inspire good acting, and Marilyn Caskey is excellent as the secretary. Her flying tackle of a recalcitrant student is one of the evening's few instances of the horseplay's being related to reality in a way that makes it genuinely hilarious. Unbelievable behavior on the part of believable characters is funny; on the part of unbelievable characters, it is not. If the headmistress had done the tackling it would have been, like most of what she does, merely embarrassing.

Credibility Stretched. The crises that actually occur in boarding schools can be weird and funny, but "Morrissey" appears to be caricaturing not life but life already caricatured in fiction. The two removes are one too many.

We are asked to believe the girls are afraid of being sold into white slavery; that a porno film has been accidentally substituted for an educational film; that a boy is smuggled in in a trunk; and so on.

Though "Morrissey's" flaws are mainly in the writing, it does not follow that the author is mainly to blame. Playwrights are apt to be fey creatures who write ten bad lines for every good one, and ten bad scenes for every good one, the first time around. Many a fine work has resulted from the creative if abrasive collaboration of a writer and a good, hardboiled director, under the watchful eye of a theater-wise producer.

Mr. Gesner said in a pre-production press conference that he seldom rewrites. Well, "Morrissey" needed a whole lot of rewriting. The director, Nagle Jackson, should have demanded it. The producers (Michael Kahn for McCarter 'by arrangement with' Arthur Whitelaw and Albert W. Selden, who apparently mean to take the work to Broadway) should have postponed production until the necessary revising was done.

Auditions

"Queen Jane," second play of the season for Princeton Community Players, will be open for auditions next Monday and Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Players' theatre, 171 Broadmead.

The play will be given the weekends of January 13 - 15, 20 - 22 and 27 - 28. Churchill Clark is the director.

There are parts for 13 or 14 men, and three women. The leading role is a female one, that of Lady Jane Grey who was Queen of England for nine days following the death of Edward VI.

Choosing works of genuine promise and nursing them to readiness requires an understanding of human and dramatic values not evident in the McCarter's latest effort.

Did You Miss Godspell? Be Sure to See It Now!

Surely one of the happiest ways to spend an evening hereabouts is to take in the Princeton Triangle Club's production of "Godspell" at 185 Nassau Street.

For the tiny minority of the populace who, like this reviewer, never saw "Godspell" during the six and a half years in which it has swept over the country, a surprise is waiting. The New Testament we heard on Sundays was never like this! Yet how vividly some of St. Matthew's famous passages stand illuminated now that I have seen them acted out with stylized clowning and sung and danced to the beat of semi-rock music.

The essential wonder of "Godspell" is that it handles the Bible both raucously and reverently. There are side-splitting episodes: to wit, the story of the Good Samaritan as acted out by hand puppets; a wildly comic rendering of the Prodigal Son; and the parable of the Sower hilariously spoken and illustrated. Colloquial wit, crackle and pop with cheerful abandon.

Yet amid the antic hubbub the familiar words of Jesus (spoken unpretentiously by Jeff Harrison) lose none of their force. And for genuine reverence it would be hard to beat the closing scene of Jesus's betrayal and crucifixion in "Godspell."

The Cup Runneth Over. This production, imaginatively and lovingly directed by Camilla Carpenter and Nancy Bleemer, University seniors and Triangle Club veterans, brims over with color, vivacity and ebullient spirit. It is hard to say which is more appealing, the brash humor, the lively, even acrobatic dancing, or the songs and their accompaniment by an excellent four-piece orchestra. Probably all three, for they reinforce each other toward a total joyous effect.

It is a show that I should like to see twice. Worked into the ensemble that the actors create together, each of the ten has his own brand of facial, vocal and bodily fireworks. It is impossible to take it all in at a single session.

There is a delightful intimacy between players and audience. The auditorium has been rearranged so that the stage is no longer at the end of a narrow room but rather surrounded on three sides by spectators. At intermission the costumed and the uncostumed mingle happily (there is no "backstage" to create barriers).

Considerations of space on a multiple-theatre weekend in Princeton prevent me from naming the many technicians, musicians and actors who have given us this joyful "Godspell." They all deserve our thanks.

The show will continue this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:30, with a matinee on Sunday, November 13. Tickets may be bought at the McCarter Theatre box office or at the door at performance times.

FROM PRINCETON

Original Play, Music. A two-act play with original score, by two students at Princeton University will open this Friday at 8:30 in Aaron Burr Hall (the former Green Hall Annex) on the corner of Nassau Street and Washington Road.

"Passage" by Elizabeth A. Fowler with music by Bonnie Barr, will be given again this Saturday and Sunday and the following week-end on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, November 17-20. Non-student admission will be $2. Reservations may be made by calling 452-8181.

Ms. Fowler has set her play in the Egypt of 2722 B.C. in the reign of Pharaoh Menkaure, builder of the smallest pyramid at Gizeh. The Pharaoh, having received a prophecy that he would die in six years' time, has defiantly surrounded himself with night-long blazing torches, believing he can thereby double his days and his six years to 12. The play opens on the last day of the six years.

DRAMA IN PENNINGTON

"Angel Street" Due. The Pennington Players will present the mystery thriller, "Angel Street," November 11, 18 and 19, in Heritage Hall, of the Pennington Presbyterian Church.

Directed by Richard Niedt, the cast includes Jan Maxwell as Mrs. Manningham, Ed Teti as Mr. Manningham, Don Thiel as Rough, Pam Ritterbusch as Elizabeth, and Betty Yureklier as Nancy. Curtain is at 8:30, and tickets are available at the door.

TENDER, GRUFF....

Armstrading is Both. Critics like to talk about the "magical range" of Joan Armstrading's voice, referring to its tenderness, gruffness, pliability.

See and hear for yourself when the West Indies-born English singer comes to Alexander Hall next Monday. She'll be on stage at 8 p.m., making her first Princeton appearance. In fact, it's her first United States tour.

The singer incorporates elements from soul, folk, blues, jazz and reggae, occasionally blending them, and sometimes offering them separately.

OFF TO THE MOVIES

"Aguirre". Subtitled ".....the Wrath of God," the 1973 Werner Herzog film, "Aguirre" is a study of tyranny, built around the efforts of a group of conquistadores in Peru to find the fabled city of El Dorado.

"Aguirre: the Wrath of God," will be shown in 10 McCosh on the Princeton University campus next Tuesday and Wednesday, November 15 and 16, at 7 and 8:45, in the "Movies-at-McCarter" series.

MIME, FOR KIDS

Escaping Gorilla? Did you see the mime, Keith Berger, when he stood on the steps of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, pretending to be a gorilla escaping from its cage?

No? Well, we don't know exactly what he'll do on the stage of McCarter (Saturday, November 19, at 2), but he did indeed pretend to be that gorilla. He also stood motionless on top of a New York Public Library lion and removed his head (outside St. Patrick's Cathedral), to climb inside it and see what was in his own mind.

He'll be in the "Specially for kids" series McCarter runs every season, and you can buy tickets at the theatre box-office.

'Prime of Miss Jean Brodie,' Potentially Explosive, Fizzles under Handling It Receives from Players

Princeton Community Players' production of "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie" is such a disappointment.

Jay Presson Allen's drama features a romantic idealist in the prime of her life as a teacher (first, last and always) in a very proper ultra-conservative school for girls outside of Edinburgh. There is great potential for "explosive drama" as PCP suggests in its advanced publicity, but unfortunately this production does not explode. While it is noisy at times, it lacks real power.

At first glance the casting would seem to be absolutely perfect. Certainly Muriel Spark, in writing the novel from which the play was adapted, must have had someone like Diana Crane in mind. Ms. Crane is tall, stately, attractive, with a commanding presence, just the right accent, and a well-deserved reputation as an accomplished actress. What more could anyone ask?

Alas, a lot more. Ms. Crane accentuates the ridiculous side of Brodie's character and all but eliminates her grand stature. It is difficult indeed to believe that Miss Brodie, as portrayed here, could reduce the school's administrator to impotency, consume the mind and soul of the art teacher, entrance the music teacher to betray his upbringing and his very nature, and most of all, to weave a spell of mystery and romance around her creme de la creme little girls to the point of life and death.

Scenes Fall Flat. What went wrong? Why isn't the portrayal of this pivotal character more convincing? Why does scene after scene (and there are many) fall flat?

The fault lies primarily with the director, Susan Tapper. This is a director's play, as they say, with all the promise of incomparable triumph and, as we see here, the equally powerful chance for disappointing failure.

Ms. Tapper's fundamental problem is in eliminating two characters who provide a framework for the play's events. Traditionally, the play opens with a reporter coming to interview a nun who has just written a highly-acclaimed book. The nun attributes the intensity and thus the success, of her work to her familiarity with the writings of St. Augustine, and even more to the life-long influence of a former teacher, Miss Jean Brodie.

What follows then is a series of flashbacks, recollections, sometimes joyous, often painful, of crucial events during her days in the 1930's as one of Miss Brodie's "set." As the personal experiences unfold against a backdrop of the rise of fascism and the war in Spain, each scene makes an important point, further delineating Brodie's character. And there is the additional intrigue of trying to guess which of the girls has become the nun.

Structure Disregarded. But all of this is lost in the PCP production. Ms. Tapper, for some undecipherable reason, has discarded the reporter, the nun, the flashbacks; in short, she has discarded the play's basic structure. We no longer have visible proof of the power of Miss Brodie's motto, "Give me a girl at an impressionable age, and she'll be mine for life."

Instead, we see the scenes unfolding in the present without the frame of a mind searching back into the past for what was important, what was real. Individual scenes do not stand out as singular, long-to-be-remembered events, nor do they flow smoothly as an integrated story, for the great lapses of time between events mitigates against this. What we are left with is a very different play, an ineffective approximation of the real thing.

Another problem is the set. It is somewhat successful in polarizing the progressive, romantic, inspirational world of Miss Brodie and the conservative, realistic, practical world of headmistress Mackay (played by Dorothy Edwards.) And in the middle we have the little girls, the future heroines (or nuns, or corpses).

But that is the limit of the set's effectiveness. With all entrances and exits made from center stage, there are inevitable collisions despite an attempt at precise choreography. In addition, the entire set needs to be raised, and there is room to do that, so that the rear half of the audience isn't forced to strain unsuccessfully to see much of the action.

In addition, the entire set needs to be raised, and there is room to do that, so that the rear half of the audience isn't forced to strain unsuccessfully to see much of the action.

And finally the set misconceptualizes Brodie's classroom. Supposedly by relying on stark black and white, Miss Brodie's colorful,

68 Marlboro Musicians in Happy Renewal of Their Past Successes

The Music from Marlboro series, which may be said to specialize in assembling unusual chamber ensembles, returned to Princeton last week, performing Beethoven's Octet, Op. 103, Gounod's Petite Symphonie in E-flat, K. 375 in 10 McCosh Hall. The basic group consisted of pairs of oboes, clarinets, bassoons, and french horns, with a flute joining in for the Gounod.

Their primary strengths were good tone and ensemble coordination. They had clearly cultivated a tonal blend that adapted well to the myriad combinations they formed during the concert, and each instrument alone also displayed an impressive tonal range.

The bassoons were mellow and fluid, though puffy once or twice, the oboes as full-toned as one could wish, the clarinets bright, and the flute, though heard less, sparkling. The horns were especially enjoyable when they opened up and took over. They wisely reserved this for strategic moments where the big sound would have its greatest effect, and kept things in balance the rest of the time, where it was enough simply to know that they could play louder if they had the mind to.

Let the worst be dispensed with early: one of the clarinetists occasionally became so preoccupied with molding phrases that his tone became pinched and his phrases almost strangled. He and several others flirted with excessive theatrics to the extent that at a few moments there was actually more physical than musical expression. Otherwise, it was a well-executed, musically assertive performance.

movements, but it was the second in which expressive attention was lavished on every solo phrase and many accompanying ones. The overall smoothness in the thin-textured sections was remarkable.

The Gounod Symphonie might be charitably classed as a "novelty." It is pleasant, though generally superficial, asking of performers little more than good tone and ensemble work. The cleverest composing was found in the very end, where the motive of a rising fifth, on which the whole finale had been based, was extended into a five-fold sequence, posing a harmonic challenge that was nicely solved. Little of what preceded measured up to that; large portions were predictable and repetitive.

Technically speaking, an impressive job was done on the accompaniment to the flute's cantabile melody in the second movement. Such textures of repeated notes are not meant to draw attention, thus can tolerate only small amounts of expressivity without stepping out of place. Yet the challenge is to avoid a simple humdrum background. The Marlboro ensemble struck the right balance, contributing an active support to the flute's fine solo, rising along with the swells, falling back as needed, and gently shaping the level spots. The two last movements demonstrated the group's agility passing phrases and motives quickly back and forth.

Precision Essential. With the Mozart Serenade, the concert returned to more substantial music. Here was an infinity of textures, giving each performer an indispensable role. Here were no "fillers" or "secondary parts."

Brilliant ensemble precision was demanded in the first movement at the concerto-like scales in thirds for clarinets, bassoons, and later, oboes, and again in the fourth movement for bassoons and later, clarinets. These were perfectly executed.

Also outstanding were the pulsating forte-piano chords at the beginning of the whole piece, an infinitesimal delay in the first movement of the diminished chord that signals the return to old material after a new melody has been heard, forte-diminuendo dynamics in each closing phrase of the second movement's trio, crystalline texture in the accompaniment at the reprise of the slow movement, a "reverberating" rather than "choppy" or "bouncy" rendition by the horns and bassoons of the second minuet's melody, contrasting with the original phrasing in the upper voices, and a bravura performance of the finale.

—Donald Greenfield

MUSIC

In Princeton

"Warm and Agreeable." The Beethoven Octet, a much earlier work than its opus number suggests (written around 1792), began the program. It belongs to that group of compositions which disguise their complexity with immediately attractive music.

Under a warm and agreeable surface lie contrasting yet unified moods, subtle scoring, irregular phrases, and bursts of rapid passage-work. It is music that could almost play itself, but at Marlboro they don't approach it so neutrally. Fine phrasing drew attention more than once in the first, third, and fourth major American city, and toured Europe, Australia, the Far East and South America.

Undaunted by a bout with polio at the age of four, Mr. Perlman was an experienced public performer in his native Israel by the time he was 10. He first came to the United States to appear on the Ed Sullivan Show, a visit that led to study at the Juillard School, a 1964 First Prize in the prestigious Leventritt International Competition, and, in 1965-66, a triumphant coast-to-coast tour.

Mr. Perlman will play works by Schubert, Brahms; Stravinsky and Paganini. Tickets are on sale at the McCarter Theatre box office, and students may obtain them at $2.50 on the day of the concert.

GUITARISTS TO PLAY

In Folk Music Concert. The Princeton Folk Music Society will sponsor a concert by guitarists Orrin Star and Gary Mehalick Friday at 8:15 at Littlebrook School, Magnolia Lane.

The two have been performing as a team for just over a year. They have appeared in numerous coffee houses, pubs and college concerts in New England and Middle Atlantic states as well as at several folk festivals.

maybe even daring, outfits will stand out as a moral and political statement. But it doesn't look like a classroom in a fine girls school on the Scottish moors. And if the portrayal of Brodie revealed the woman's full dimension, such sharp contrasts would not be necessary. Indeed, Brodie should shine against any backdrop if we are to believe her power over those around her.

Ms. Tapper brings her directorial skill into further question by her conceptualization of Lowther (Bill LaTouche), the music teacher who loses his heart to Brodie. As seen here, he is too much the fool. He is a parody of himself. Are we honestly expected to believe that the incomparable Miss Brodie, who inspires such devotion and dedication, would consort with a buffoon? Lowther must be weak and maleable, but must he be a caricature?

In sharp contrast is Churchill Clark who doesn't seem to give his undivided attention to portraying Teddy Lloyd, the third-rate art teacher and womanizer, with a wife and six children. He has most of the best lines in the play, but time after time he throws them away. He, like Ms. Crane, is more the reciter than the actor. Both lack the fine touches, the nearly unnoticed gesture, the slightest facial expression that can be so revealing. So much more could have been done.

The high spots in the play are the scenes featuring the four not-so-little girls. Deserving of praise and future attention are Jane Beard (Sandy), Robin Buckingham (Jenny), Christine Cragg (Monica), and especially Nina Mankin, who exquisitely portrays the pathetic Mary MacGregor, who pays with her life for her unquestioning devotion to Miss Jean Brodie.

"The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie" continues at the Princeton Community Playhouse, 171 Broadmead, on November 11, 12, 13, 18, and 19. Show time is 8:30 on Friday and Saturday; 7:30 on Sunday. For tickets and further information, call 921-6314.

Mr. Star won the National Flat Picking Contest and placed second in the mandolin competition in Winfield, Kan., in 1976. He played lead guitar and mandolin with the Lightning Express Bluegrass Band in the Boston area before teaming up with Mr. Mehalick, who was formerly the lead singer and lead guitarist with the Still River Ramblers, also in Boston.

Admission is $3, $2.50 for students and senior citizens, $2 for Princeton Folk Music Society members, and $1 for students not yet in high school. Memberships will be available at the door. There are no advance ticket sales.

CONCERT PLANNED

By Princeton Soprano. Jenneke Barton, soprano, will give a free concert on Sunday at 3 in Woolworth Center, under the auspices of the Friends of Music at Princeton. Thomas Hryniv, pianist, and Evelyn Jacobs, viola, will accompany her.

Ms. Barton grew up in Princeton and graduated from Wellesley College. She began her singing career as a mezzo-soprano in Boston, and appeared in recital and as soloist with chamber music groups, opera companies and choral societies in New England. She was soloist with the Boston Pops, Arthur Fiedler conducting, and sang two seasons with the Santa Fe Opera.

Ms. Barton made her New York Philharmonic Hall debut as soloist with the New York Choral Society and her Carnegie Hall debut as soloist with the Oratorio Society of New York. She has also spent a summer as participating artist at the Marlboro Music Festival. As a member of the Philadelphia Composers' Forum she has premiered works by George Crumb and other contemporary composers, and has toured colleges as the narrator in Schoenberg's "Pierrot Lunaire."

Ms. Barton will perform works by Faure, Bartok, Berg, Loeffler, and Ives.

NEW QUARTET TO PLAY

At Choir College. The newly-organized Princeton Piano Quartet, Elma Adams, Louise Cheadle, William Cheadle, and Marion Zarzeczna, will make its debut in a recital Tuesday at 8 in the Playhouse at Westminster Choir College. The public is invited free of charge. A reception for the artists in the College's Student Center will follow the recital given by a committee headed by Isabelle Van de Velde.

All four members of the Quartet, concert soloists in their own right, have given major recitals in Lincoln Center, have performed with orchestra, and have been winners of major performance prizes. All four are also members of the faculty of Westminster's Conservatory Division. They will be joined by flutist Claire Racamato.

The program will consist of works by Hindemith, Rachmaninoff, Ravel, Ives, Schubert, Poulenc, Moskowski and Cheadle.

CONCERTS LISTED

By Friends of Music. The Friends of Music at Princeton will present Edward Cone, pianist, and Fadlou Shehadi, baritone, in a concert on Friday, at 8:30 in Woolworth on the University campus. In an all-Schumann program, Mr. Shehadi will perform the "Dichterliebe" and "Heini Liederkreis" and Mr. Cone will play the "Sonata in F Minor."

Prof. Cone a noted composer, scholar, pianist, and teacher, has been a member of the faculty of Princeton University for many years. His book, "Musical Form and Musical Performance," has been praised as "the most persuasive attempt ever made to reconcile the intellectual analysis of music with the practical problems of the intelligent performer." Prof. Cone last appeared under the auspices of the Friends in 1973 in a concert for two pianos with Prof. Walter Nollner.

Mr. Shehadi is a graduate of the Institute de Musique in Beirut, Lebanon, and studied with Bernard Diamant in Montreal and in New York with the late Jennie Tourel. He has performed in Canada with the Montreal Opera Company and has appeared locally with the Princeton Symphony Orchestra, Princeton Chamber Orchestra and the Collegium Musicum, as well as in a number of concerts under the auspices of the Friends. He is professor of philosophy at Douglass College.

The Friends of Music will also present two undergraduates, Candace Primas, pianist, and Norma Garcia, soprano, in a free concert Saturday at 8:30 in Woolworth Center. A senior majoring in music, Miss Primas will perform works by Scarlatti, Schubert, Chopin, Liszt and Capriccio. Miss Garcia is a junior and a voice student of Shirlee Emmons. She will sing a trio of Italian songs, accompanied by Miss Primas.

SCHUBERTWORK NEXT

For Amateurs. The next meeting of the Society of Musical Amateurs will be held on Sunday at 4 in the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill Road and Route 206, Princeton. Prof. Walter Nollner, Conductor of the Princeton University Glee Club and Chapel Choir, will conduct an open rehearsal-reading of the Schubert Mass in E flat, with full orchestra, chorus, and soloists. The soloists will be Jean Thomas, soprano; Jane Sharaf, alto; Tom Faracco, tenor; and John Woodard, bass.

Anyone interested in choral singing is cordially invited to participate or attend. No auditions are required to sing in the chorus, but modest sight-reading ability is helpful. There is a small charge for those without a yearly membership to cover music and refreshments and all students are admitted without charge.

For further information call Mrs. Ramus at 924-4266.

THE PATTERNS OF EVERYDAY FORMS: Birdcages are among the familiar images used by Katharine Steele Renninger in her evocation of everyday forms and the lights and patterns they create. Her work is on display at Gallery 100.

ART In Princeton

"REALISM"
 At Gallery 100. Although realism in art is defined as the picturing of life as it actually is, many artists use realism as an applied technique. Although the subject is presented in an apparently literal manner, the realism is used to support abstract statements that may be either visual or narrative. Katherine Steele Renninger does this in her collection of paintings in casein on display at Gallery 100. Although her subjects are faithfully rendered with the greatest of care, she uses her realism as a vehicle to communicate ideas about pattern, light and the contrasts to be found within similar forms. What at first appears to be an almost photographic rendering of the subject then reveals itself as a concern with the aesthetic values found within repeated forms, intersecting lines, secondary rhythms and light. The artist employs familiar forms such as Victorian gingerbread, iron bedsteads, architectural details, building facades and other commonplace themes using a muted, cool palette. She develops her subjects into well-designed, carefully constructed paintings in which the structure of the work is as important as the subject it deals with.

SINCE 1900
 In Campus Exhibit. A small collection of 20th century art from the Princeton University Art Museum's collection offers a microcosmic view of innovative work in this century. Although this offering is sparse in number, it captures the dynamic of the new forms that have existed in the arts since 1900.

The exhibit begins at the beginning of the century with the new forms created by Arp, Schwitters, Villon and Duchamp. It continues through the century, showing the work of artists who have made significant contributions to change. Paintings by Jackson Pollock, Willem de Kooning and Mark Rothko provide examples of radical stylistic departures from prevailing modes.

The exhibit is staged in a manner which guides the viewer through transitions and invites comparison between the different works while creating a sense of continuity and flow. We are brought up to the present with a George Segal cast of a torso, a large painting by Frank Stella and the piece de resistance: the enormous Jim Dine painting which combines household implements and loosely applied paint.

Included are several works that we know are art because they are in an art museum, and are truly innovative in that they have reached beyond our definitions of art. A few words would be appreciated, in that they might help the uninitiated viewer to relate to work that is difficult to comprehend.

Nineteenth century European drawings offer the viewer the many contrasts in style and technique that existed in Europe at that time. French, English, German and Spanish works are grouped according to general subject. One grouping includes figurative works and the other, landscape. Within each grouping are works by masters and lesser known artists. The quality of the drawings seems not to be determined by the reputation of the artist and, as such, offers some provocative viewing. Pencil sketches, ink drawings, charcoal and watercolor are among the many media employed in this collection. They are used in works that range from the typical narrative Victorian piece to the fresh, flowing pencil studies of Daubigny and Pissarro.

North Central New Jersey Mensa, with headquarters in Princeton, is beginning a membership drive. There are some 450 members in this chapter of American Mensa, the national society whose sole requirement for membership is scoring higher than 98 percent of the population on a number of standardized IQ tests.

The local chapter has between 30 and 40 activities a month, ranging from pot luck dinners specializing in ethnic cuisine, to special interest groups (SIGs) devoted to crafts, puzzles and board games, gifted children, sign language, parapsychology, bicycling and computers. There are regular open houses and 'lunch bunches'—several in Princeton. Notices of these and other events, in addition to columns on such subjects as care of houseplants, legal puzzles, architecture and prison reform appear in the chapter's 32-page monthly newsletter, FORVM.

Mensa accepts members who have demonstrated their qualifications on any of a variety of tests, in addition to those who score well enough on the tests Mensa administers. A score from SAT, GRE, military classification tests, LSAT, Miller's Analogies or two dozen others may be submitted for appraisal.

Rumors on Coaching Change Numerous— How About This One? Cozza to Come Here

In war or in peace, when uncertainty abounds, rumor flourishes, and the world of sports is a prolific incubator under such circumstances. This week, with the future of leadership of Princeton football undetermined, speculation was churning.

In the University administration, a vacancy is about to be created with the retirement next spring of William H. Weathersby, Vice-President for Public Affairs. Among the applicants reportedly being considered as his successor is Royce N. Flippin, now in his sixth year as Princeton's Director of Athletics.

If Flippin moves upstairs, so the story goes, the way would be paved to keep Bob Casciola at Princeton by appointing him to replace Flippin. Whatever measurement is made of Casciola's success as football coach, he is extremely well liked in many quarters, and deserves every bit of the respect and popularity he has achieved. Indications are that key administrators in Nassau Hall, and hundreds of undergraduates and alumni would be delighted if he remains on the Princeton scene should his tenure as football coach come to an end.

Whether or not these moves are made, the possibility remains strong that Princeton will be looking for a new coach. Among the first whose name has been mentioned is Carmen Cozza, who has personally engineered the Tigers' 11-game losing streak to Yale and who is the most successful coach in the sport in Eli history.

Awareness that Casciola's contract as coach here may not be renewed has been preceded by reports in New Haven that Cozza might be interested in the challenge of turning Princeton football around if the opportunity were offered him. Asked about his feeling on such a move, he logically had no comment, but the word in New Haven is that Cozza's disenchantment stems from the red carpet treatment that Frank Ryan got when he was named Yale's director of athletics.

Cozza had the job himself for four days after the 1976 football season ended, but decided he could not leave the coaching he loved, and went back to it. When Ryan, the ex-Cleveland Browns' quarterback, was selected to replace him, he was given faculty status and time to teach math, away from his chores as athletic director. No one, it seems, had suggested to Cozza that it might be possible for him to serve as athletic director and have enough time off to coach football.

His achievements in guiding Yale to the top of the Ivy League are unmatched by any of the other seven coaches in their current positions. If he beats Harvard on Saturday, it will be the Elis' sixth first-place finish in the dozen years he has been head coach there.

Should a vacancy develop at Princeton, it would seem sensible for the administration here to talk to Carm Cozza. Jake Crouthamel resigned last week at Dartmouth, and if Cozza doesn't want to stay at Yale, he would undoubtedly be most welcome at Hanover.

Yale's Pulverizing Victory May Bring End To Casciola Regime--Cornell Here Saturday

MAN WITH A PURPOSE: John Pagliaro on his way to Princeton and zone from 24 yards out in third period. Block being thrown on Paul Converse (21), Tiger defensive back, is typical of Elis' play as they won, 44-8. Pagliaro, who gained 151 yards and scored twice, is ranked in top 10 nationally in yards rushing and in first five in points scored.

In a Götterdämmerung setting of gathering storm clouds and early darkness, it appeared virtually certain that the end of another chapter in Princeton football history was written Saturday in mist-shrouded Palmer Stadium. The incredible ease with which Yale rolled to a 30-0 halftime lead on the way to a devastating 44-8 triumph has replaced, and they were benched for good after raising the score to 37-0 within three minutes of the start of the second half. The Elis were sufficiently merciful that, for the final 27 minutes of the afternoon, Princeton outscored them, 8 to 7, and Yale partisans applauded with visible sincerity when the bloodied but unbowed Tigers pushed across their lone TD early in the final quarter.

If Tigers Had Won... Prior to the game, there had been speculation that if Casciola somehow managed to beat Yale, thereby ending the 10-game string of defeats and winning the Big Three title for the first time since 1966, his term here might have been renewed despite the total absence of a winning season since he came here. In his favor have been such factors as recognition that the personnel with which he has worked has been sub-par by Ivy League standards, and the extreme degree of loyalty and enthusiasm that his players unfailingly demonstrate during continued adversity.

The figures on the debit side of the ledger are, however, extremely vivid in the picture they paint of the decline and fall of this sport at Princeton. With one game left, the five-year record shows a mere 13 victories in 44 games - none at all over Brown, Penn and Yale, one over Dartmouth and two over Harvard. While a commitment has been made to increase the number of qualified football players who matriculate here, any recruiting campaign will be adversely affected by awareness on the part of high school seniors that winning football has not been achieved at Princeton since 1970. If they see no effort to change that trend, many of them will go elsewhere.

Yale's ability to dominate Princeton totally was reflected in its initial two possessions, the first resulting in a 91-yard scoring drive and the second in one of 69 yards, both culminating in passes from Rizzo to end Bob Krystyniak for touchdowns. The Elis' mastery was so complete that while countless games have been won by teams down 14-0 in the early going, there was no question that the visitors had this one firmly in hand.

One more touchdown early in the second period (on a 54-yard unhindered burst by Pagliaro) was followed by field goals of 46 and 42 yards by sophomore Dave Schwartz. The losers, meanwhile, never put the ball in motion outside their own territory until they trailed, 27-0. By that time, senior Kirby Lockhart was on the bench and had been replaced by sophomore Ken Barrett. So lopsided was the game, incidentally, that the two teams used a total of eight quarterbacks — Yale's fifth unlisted in the program.

Statistics Are Crushing. In all likelihood, the 30 points in 30 minutes scored by Yale constitute the largest advantage either team has ever held at the half in the 100 games played. During the first two quarters, Yale had run and passed for 300 yards, and had held the Tigers to 61. By the end of the day, the victors' total was 485. The Tigers managed 164, a figure reduced by innumerable quarterback sacks.

Bobby Isom was held to a meagre 30 yards on 13 carries, whereas Pagliaro, in just seven more attempts, ran for 151 yards and a pair of touchdowns. His speed and his ability to break tackles were outstanding, he will repeat as the leading running back and high scorer in both the Ivy League and the ECAC, and should be a high draft choice when the NFL is ready to look at the Class of 1978.

CORNELL FINAL FOE

As Bob Blackman returns. The only team beside Columbia that Princeton has been able to dominate in recent years will come to Palmer Stadium Saturday for the final game of the season. The Tigers have a three-game winning streak over this opponent; if it is snapped, they will finish in a tie for last place with the Red and in all likelihood, Columbia.

Seeking to turn the tide, and end his own record with a modest two-game winning streak will be Bob Blackman, who took Dartmouth to the pinnacle of the Ivy League on numerous occasions before departing for the Big Ten and Illinois. His services were terminated there last fall, and he returned to Ivy action at Ithaca, losing seven in a row before upsetting Columbia last week, 20 to 7. Casciola was for three years an assistant on his staff at Hanover.

QUICK LOOK AT CORNELL

OFFENSE: Spotty. Has gained more yardage than Princeton's but until 20-point outburst against Columbia, had averaged just 6 points a game in Ivy action.

DEFENSE: Frequently in trouble, allowing opponents better than 360 yards apiece. Linebacker Terry Lee being promoted by Cornell as All-American candidate.

CHIEF ASSET: Momentum from winning first game of year against Columbia will give Red belief it can and season with victory here.

CHIEF PROBLEM: Formative year under new coach who began with only nine returning starters has been complicated by steady string of injuries.

TYPE OF ATTACK: Multiple.

Ivy League Forecast

Princeton over Cornell. If Tigers want it enough.

Yale over Harvard. Elis have it all together.

Dartmouth over Penn. Passing deficiency finally costly.

Brown over Columbe. Lions' season has fallen apart.

Last Week

1 Right, 3 Wrong—250

Record to Date

27 Right, 13 Wrong—675

Pitch outs, reverses, double reverses, halfback option passes are all a possible part of Cornell's attack Saturday under Blackman, a proponent of the spectacular within the limitations of Ivy football. His 1977 team has given most opponents a solid run for game honors (losing by margins of 4 to 10 points to Penn, Colgate, Harvard and Dartmouth), but could not solve its defensive problems until it held Columbia to a lone TD Saturday.

Jim Hoffer, with a pass completion average around 50 percent, is the quarterback; unlike most others the Tigers have faced this season, he almost never carries the ball. Craig Jaeger, Ken Talton and Wayne Dowlin are the principal ball carriers.

Dave Rupert and Brad Decker, the ends, are Hoffer's principal receivers. If the game is close, Chris Howe's good placekicking could make the difference — until sophomore Keith Manz booted a pair of field goals against Columbia, the Red had made only one all season.

Defensively, Cornell has been in season-long trouble, no opponent failing to score at least 17 points against it in its first seven games. Such a weakness must have been particularly galling to Blackman, after having instilled the value of top defensive play at Dartmouth, where it is still cherished today.

Princeton's problem Saturday will center on its ability to restore morale and cohesion after Yale kicked the stuffing out of any hope for a respectable season. Victory would pay a triple dividend: it would allow a disappointing season to end on a winning note; it would keep the Orange and Black out of the Ivy cellar; and it would give it a psychological edge when the two teams open the 1978 season next September at Ithaca — regardless of who is the coach.

PHS DEBUT WEDNESDAY
In NJSIAA Soccer. Originally scheduled for Tuesday, the debut of the Princeton High School soccer team in the NJSIAA state soccer championships will come this Wednesday afternoon.

At 2:45, the Little Tigers will meet their first-round opponent, Middlesex Vocational Technical High School in East Brunswick. When Middlesex was selected for the tournament, it had a 10-3 record.

"That's not bad, but I feel more confident about this game than most this season," said PHS coach Ed Beacham. Adding that he would probably have to eat his words later, Beacham said that he based his confidence on the calibre of the play here in this area. "With Steinert, Hamilton, Trenton, Notre Dame ... some of the best soccer in the country is played right here in Mercer County. I think we should beat them."

Beacham's optimism is only

PHS Will Oppose Notre Dame after Losing, 9-7, to Lawrence

IT ISN'T WHAT IT LOOKS LIKE: Although he seems in the clear, Princeton High tailback Barry Turner did not score on this second-period play. He was pulled down on the 25 after a 41-yard gain against Lawrence High Saturday. The Cardinal defense held as the visitors went on to win, 9-7.

Certainly neither Jim Beachell nor Chappy Moore, respective coaches of the Princeton High and Notre Dame High football teams, had hoped it would be thus, but the fact remains the PHS-ND game Saturday doesn't carry a crucial label for either team.

Both are out of the running for the Colonial Valley Conference title, after the two schools shared the crown last year. But aside from pride, there is another incentive to win. PHS, 3-4, needs this one and its finale with Trenton to finish above .500. The Irish, all even at 3-3-1, would like to stay above the .500 mark and in the process win their first CVC game. Their league mark is a dismal 0-2-1.

The contest will be played at Notre Dame, starting at 1:30. "It's going to be a real close game, just like this one," predicted Beachell, moments after his Little Tigers had lost a 9-7 decision to Lawrence.

PHS Takes 7-0 Lead. Saturday morning was a time for high school students to take the Standard Achievement Test required by most colleges for admission, and PHS seemed to have all the right answers in the first period against visiting Lawrence. It scored in the high 600s, marching 58 yards in 14 plays to take a 7-0 lead with 4:01 left in the first period.

Barry Turner carried the ball on eight of those 14, including the last three. He banged over from the one. In the process, he has established what has become clearer with each passing game: he is one of the finer slightly tempered by the loss of three regulars through injuries. Joel Schulman's ankle is in a cast; fullback Bob Mooney has a severely strained knee and although he says he is ready, Beacham doesn't think he'll play, either. Pierre Muri has a strained back and it has hampered the things he can do, reported Beacham. "I'll make a couple of adjustments," he said.

Lawrence Wins. In its final home game last week, the Little Tigers were defeated by Lawrence High, 5-1, in the rain and mud. To guard against possible injuries, Beacham had pulled some of his starting players.

Princeton's lone goal came off a corner kick by fullback David Reed that curved into the net. It was his first goal of the season. "It was one of those benders that came back and went off the finger tips of the goalie," said Beacham.

TRYOUTS MONDAY

For YMCA Wrestling. The Princeton YMCA will hold tryouts for its wrestling team on Monday at 4:30. All boys, grades 3 thru 8, are invited to running backs in the league.

The Little Tigers were obviously fired up. It came as a surprise, later that these were to be only points the home team put on the board. "I thought the team played well, we just couldn't get it going when we had to," said Beachell. "It was a tough one to lose."

If there was a turning point, it may have been in the second period when Turner broke free for 41 yards to the Cardinal 25. Two running plays by Bobby Campbell and Keith Wadsworth, however, netted five yards. A pass by Tommy Seiler was batted down, a second one was dropped.

Cardinals Go 80 Yards. The Cardinals took over on the 20 and drove the remaining distance in seven plays, the big gainer a 36-yard pass from Corey Frederick to his favorite target, Matt Sabisky. Mike Donnelly, Lawrence's best runner of the afternoon, ran for a first down to the 19 and three plays later, Frederick passed 12 yards to Sabisky for the touchdown. There were six halftime seconds left on the clock. Sabisky's PAT tied it at 7 after Seiler had converted following the Little Tiger's score.

The third period was scoreless, although both teams were knocking. Early in the period, with Turner and Bobby Campbell doing most of the lugging, PHS drove as far as the 15. Sabisky, a PHS thorn all day, intercepted a Seiler pass in the end zone to end the threat.

Lawrence, in turn, starting tryout in the athletic wing of the Y on Paul Robeson Place. For more information, call the YMCA at 924-4825.

WW WINS AGAIN, 33-6

Last Home Game Saturday. West Windsor prepared for its climactic showdown against Hightstown a week away for the Colonial Valley Conference league championship by walloping winless St. Anthony's last week, 33-6.

The Pirates will play their final home game of the season Saturday at 1:30 against Gill-St. Bernards (this should be an easy one for WW) and then the big one. The WW-Hightstown winner will become the CVC's second champion.

The Pirates unleashed their potent ground game against St. Anthony. It's top scorer, Ron Dilatash got the first two TDs, scoring on runs of six and three yards. West Windsor's other three scores also came on runs from inside the ten.

WW is now 5-1-1 overall and 3-0-1 in league play; Hightstown is 7-0 and 4-0 in the league.

from its 20 drove 79.5 yards. From inside the 10, Donnelly was swarmed over by a host of PHS tacklers on one play. Fullback James Nelson plowed to the three on the next play. On fourth down, needing three, Frederick circled end on a keeper but was driven out on the 6-inch line by Kieran Esposito.

But PHS was in a deep hole. Turner tried to bail the team out with a quick kick on third down; the ball thudded into guard Bryan Brodowski and PHS covered on the one.

Then as PHS punter Dan Alcazar backed up to the end zone line, he watched in dismay as the snap sailed high over his head for an automatic safety. Ironically, the center, Jim Harris is used by Beachell on punting situations because he gets the ball back better than regular Cory Easter.

The defense got the ball twice more for the Little Tigers but they failed to pick up a first down both times. Seiler ended up with two completions in 13 attempts and one interception.

Beachell said later that he felt both teams played very well. He described Lawrence as underrated and its record (it was its second straight win after five opening losses) as deceiving.

For PHS, it was its third league loss against one win. As Beachell said, "a tough one to lose." The only winner for PHS this afternoon was the Class of 1980, whose float won the homecoming parade at halftime.

EXHIBITION SATURDAY

For Tiger Basketball Team. Windsor of Canada, a basketball team which competes at the international level, will play Princeton Saturday night at 8 in an exhibition game in Jadwin Gym. Admission to the event, which precedes the formal opening of the season by two weeks, is $2.

Coach Pete Carril is expected to start his 6-8 center, Bob Roma, and forwards Frank Sowinski and Rich Marsia. The back court will consist of the veteran Bill Smeltchenko and John Lewis, newcomer to the lineup elected by Carril to replace Doug Snyder, who did not return to college in the fall.

Carril has kept a 15-man squad for the present, one that includes the first resident of Princeton to play the sport for the Tigers in a number of years. Tony Trani, who starred at Hun and Lawrenceville, is a guard and the word is that he can run the offense well. Operations on both his knees in the past may hamper his progress.

Tom Young, the 6-11 center who was off the squad briefly for personal reasons after practice began, has returned and will spell Roma on occasion. Bob Kleinert, a 6-2 senior with a good eye for the basket, will fit in at forward with considerable frequency. Rich Rizzuto is sure to play a lot of guard, even if he is not currently scheduled to start, while Tim Olah, another holdover, is likewise available.

Colgate will be in Jadwin Saturday, November 26, for the first game of the regular season, one which will see the Tigers attempt to win their third straight Ivy title. Following a trip to Annapolis on November 30 to meet Navy, the team will have its first major test of the season against St. John's here on Saturday, December 3.

SEASON ENDS WITH WIN

For PDS Football Team. An up and down season ended on a high for the Princeton Day football team last Friday, when it ran over, around and through a weak Morristown-Beard squad, 45-14.

The victory brought the Panthers' record up to 3-4-1 and gave them a second place finish in the first year of the Jersey Prep League. Coming after three successive defeats at the hands of Peddie, Wardlaw and Hun, the contest was a pleasant turn around for the Blue and White, allowing seven senior players and coach Rob Hoffman to depart on a winning note.

Hoffman, who completed his second year as PDS coach, has decided not to return to the school next fall. "My association here has been very pleasant," he commented. "However, I would like to take some time off." His successor has not been named.

Seven seniors who will graduate in June also will not be back. These include Rob Olsson, whose consistent ability to gain yardage with or without blocking will be sorely missed, Don Gips, right guard, Tim Dill, left guard, Dave Baroodess, wide receiver, Doug Fitton, right tackle, Brad Clippinger, left tackle, Burr Stoner, middle guard, Pat de Maynadier, center and Ken Trock, running back.

A strong junior program which had 30 boys out for the

Hockey Season to Start

The earliest start in hockey history for Princeton will take place next Wednesday, November 16, at 7:30 when the Tigers face Merrimack College of Merrimack, Mass., the 1977 Division II champions.

Coach Jim Higgins, who came here from Colgate to succeed Jack Semler, has been holding practice without his two returning top scorers. Center Trevor Kilborn is out for six weeks with a fractured collarbone sustained in practice and Craig Tresham, another center, has been sidelined since he stepped on a nail.

In addition to the injuries, Higgins will have a major problem with the schedule. After Merrimack, nine of the next 11 games are on the road, with Yale, Brown and Dartmouth all to be met this month.

team will help fill some of the gaps. If the junior team continues to attract a lot of players, the varsity will definitely benefit.

Freshmen See Action

Hoffman had told six or seven freshmen to dress for the game, just to give them the experience of being on the sidelines during the game. As it turned out, he was able to give all of them some game experience. It was apparent very early on that PDS was going to waltz its way through this one.

It hops from 0 to 50 in 8.3 seconds (something most Japanese cars can't do).

Olsson got the Panthers on the scoreboard early in the first period with a four-yard run. Morristown was stopped and sophomore Bill Haynes scored his first of three touchdowns of the day, taking a five-yard pass from quarterback Jeff Freda in the end zone.

Before the quarter ended, Haynes scored on a six-yard run to make it 20-0. Barondess had kicked both extra points with ease, so PDS went for two this time and that worked also. Two-point conversions never seem to fail when you're already ahead by 20 points.

Morristown held on to the ball longer in the second quarter and for a while it looked like PDS might be held scoreless. It looked even more like it when the visitors kicked and the ball rolled dead on the PDS two-yard line with about two minutes to play.

It turned out to be no problem at all. The Panthers went into their two-minute drill; and on first down Freda stepped back into the end zone and hit Rob Olsson with a pass on about the 10 and he went up the right sideline for 98 yards and six more points. Tim Murdoch threw a perfect block about the PDS 40 which insured that Olsson would go the distance.

With another Barondess extra point that made it 29-0, you would certainly figure PDS was through for the half. Not so.

The Blue and White got the ball back with nine seconds remaining, time for one pass play. Freda again set up and this time hit Chris Price on a post pattern that was good for 63 yards and another score. Barondess kicked his fourth extra point and Princeton Day completed the highest scoring half it has ever had.

After the intermission, the Panthers resumed the rout, scoring first on a 43-yard field goal by Barondess and finally on a seven-yard run by Haynes. Morristown managed a couple of fourth quarter scores against the Panther reserves, but daylight ran out before the clock did and the last four or five minutes were not played.

Freshman Scott Egner distinguished himself with his snaps on point after attempts and the field goal.

HUNNINGHAKE WINS

To PP&K Competition. Michael Hunninghake, son of Dr. and Mrs. Leroy Hunninghake, 154 Dodds Lane, was one of six district winners in the Punt, Pass & Kick competition held at Franklin Field on the University of Pennsylvania campus. He was presented a trophy on behalf of the Ford Dealers of America and the National Football League.

Michael will next compete Sunday during the halftime of the Philadelphia Eagles game at Veterans Stadium. He is sponsored locally by Nassau-Conover Motor Company, Route 206.

HUN TOPS PINGRY, 19-6

Final Game Saturday. A lot of the gloom surrounding the Hun football team this season has disappeared.

It began to dissipate with the victory over Princeton Day School, brightened considerably with Saturday's 19-6 victory over Pingry and now coach Dave Leete says a win in Hun's final game of the season against Admiral Farragut "will make our season." Hun had lost its first five.

The final game against the Future Admirals will be played Saturday at 1:30 in Toms River. Farragut has a 1-6 record but Leete discounts that.

"They're a very good team. They have the same problem we do: they face the same competition. They're a strong, big team."

For a while against Pingry, Hun appeared headed for its sixth defeat. On the third play of the game, the visitors caught the Hun defense with a lateral to a wide halfback, who tossed to his end for a 54-yard touchdown play. It was the only score in the half.

To add to the gloom, Hun lost both its standout tackle Bob Cronin and halfback Tom Adams in the first period for the rest of the game with painful hip-pointer injuries. Sophomore Dave Wheaten missed the entire game with an injury.

In the third period, Hun had the ball on the one but fumbled and Pingry recovered. On the next play, Hun rushed everyone. Brian Lee knocked the ball loose from the Pingry quarterback and Sal Ammirata recovered for the TD. The extra point failed, leaving the teams deadlocked at 6.

However, Hun scored again in the same period, Craig Darwin taking a pitchout from

The Peugeot 604 SL gives you comfort and roadability the Cadillac Seville can't deliver.

To experience the superior riding comfort and roadability of the Peugeot 604, you have to drive it yourself. When you do, you'll discover a level of satisfaction the Cadillac Seville can't provide.

Smoother ride

Unlike Seville, the Peugeot 604 has McPherson struts for extra-long vertical wheel travel. And oversized shock absorbers designed and patented by Peugeot.

Better handling

Four-wheel independent suspension and weight distribution that's nearly perfect give the 604 better road holding characteristics than the Seville.

Tighter cornering

The 604's turning circle is 4½ feet smaller in diameter than Seville's.

Better braking

In 70 to 0 tests, the Peugeot 604 stopped short of Seville by over ten feet.*

More precise steering

Unlike the Seville, the Peugeot 604 has power-assisted rack and pinion steering, so you can park with ease without losing the feel of the road at highway speeds.

Lower price

The Seville starts at around $13,350. A comparably equipped Peugeot 604 SL lists for about $1,600 less.†

Naturally both cars give you comfortable interiors. But for a much lower price, the Peugeot 604 gives you the total driving comfort only a true European grand touring sedan can deliver.

quarterback E.T. Roach from five yards out. Fullback Matt Roach then scored on an eight-yard run in the final period. Roach passed for 104 yards on seven completions while brother Matt gained 41 yards in 12 carries to lead the Hun offense.

"We've come a long way," observed Leete. "We stuck together, the spirit among the players has been good the whole way."

TWO GAMES LEFT

For PDS Soccer Team. The 1977 season has come down to just two crucial games for the Princeton Day soccer team, and anything less than two victories will be a major disappointment.

Undefeated through 13 contests, the Panthers will play the semi-finals of the state tournament against Gill-St. Bernards this Wednesday at home. If they win there as expected, the finals against the winner of the Rutgers Prep-Montclair match-up will be played either Friday or Saturday at PDS.

The Blue and White defeated Gill-St. Bernards a month ago, but only by a 1-0 score on the losers' rather narrow field. Coach Tom DeVito is hoping for a wider margin this time around. Judging by the amount of rain the last couple of days, the field could well be fairly muddy.

Wednesday's contest was postponed because of the all-day downpour on Monday, and PDS was not the least bit sad

"BIG FOOT": PDS co-captain Andy Sandford sank several booming kicks toward the Lawrenceville goal last Wednesday, but the Panthers couldn't quite convert any of them into a score in the superbly played game by both sides.

about it. The extra two days rest will be helpful to a couple of the players nursing minor injuries.

Outstanding Game. Last Wednesday, Princeton Day and Lawrenceville gave an outstanding demonstration of soccer as it should be played. Four periods of regulation time and two of overtime did not produce a tally by either side, but the thrills and near misses piled on top of one another. It was a game that either team could have won, but neither deserved to lose.

Each team had several chances in the end-to-end action, but superb defensive play on both sides saved many shots. Chris Bundy, Joe Lapsley, Andy Sandford, Doug Fine, Dave McCord and goalies John Rodgers and Tony Dell played well on defense for PDS.

On Friday, Princeton Day had no trouble beating Pennington, 6-2 to close out its regular season. Mike Walters had four of the six goals raising his season total to 24, which ties the record he set last year. Jay Nusblatt had the other two goals, plus two assists and Ralph Ross had two assists.

DOWN TO THE WIRE

Hun Soccer Finale Friday. The Hun School soccer team will play its final game Friday, a Penn-Jersey League contest here against Germantown Friends starting at 3:15.

After a 3-0 win over Friends Central last week, Hun is 3-2-1 in the league. A final win would probably leave Hun in second place in the eight-team league or tied for second. Because of some faulty league communication, Hun coach Jack Huckel said it is impossible at the moment to tell who is in first place or which team is likely to remain there. "Psychologically speaking, we can always say we finished in second place," he quipped.

After a scoreless first half, Jim Whelan, Chris Dollard and John Muscente all found the goal in Hun's win over Friends Central. "We had good control of the game in terms of territory, but our shots were off the mark," reported Huckel, voicing a familiar refrain about the pattern of Hun's play this year.

Bob Whelan and Joe Claffey each played a half in front of the net for Hun to share the shutout. "Both did a good job," said Huckel.

Earlier in the week, Hun was blanked, 4-0, by Newark Academy. Presently, its record is 4-10-1.

GIRLS TENNIS 15-1

As PHS Season Ends. A 5-0 victory over Lawrence High enabled the Princeton High School girls tennis team to end its season with a 15-1 record.

"Fifteen and one! Not a bad season; I'll take that any year," said coach Bill Humes. But he added: "I'd like to have that one loss back," referring to the Little Tigers' lone setback to Rumson-Fair Haven in the final round of the NJSIAA Central Jersey state championships.

PHS won all its matches in straight sets against Lawrence to finish 8-0 in the Colonial Valley Conference for its second league crown in a row. Vicki Phillips, Diane Aronovic and Lisa Merians all triumphed in singles play, while Debbie Blair and Beth Ellis and Julia Heeg and Jane Arrington won in doubles.

Humes loses Karen Clark, Phillips and Arrington through graduation. Basically, he reported, he will have to fill one or two spots, selecting from talented jayvee and freshman squads. Princeton, as other schools in the county have discovered year after year, is awash in tennis talent.

many years and an articulate and active Lion at all levels.

It is less well known that the Lions Club maintains sick room supplies, from hospital beds to crutches for loan to patients recuperating at home. The planting of flowers in the traffic island at the corner of Paul Robeson Place, Chambers and John streets is a Lions project. Deborah Heart and Lung Hospital is another recipient of Lions' generosity.

To finance these many projects the Lions have sold brooms and light bulbs from door to door. During the war, Lions members cooperated with the American Legion Post 76 in the collection of tons of newspaper and scrap metal. In recent years, the main fund-raising activity has been a dinner dance held in March for which members solicit advertisements from merchants for a dance program.

Eric Miha, a past president and active at one time in each of the various projects, comments that the Lions are "a fine group of men. We enjoy good fellowship at our meetings." However, he notes that the Lions now meet on a biweekly basis instead of weekly and that service clubs all over town seem to lack the zeal and enthusiasm they once possessed.

A 1946 TOWN TOPICS article on the club's activities bore the headline, "Lions Roar Louder." Perhaps the 50th anniversary celebration will reinvigorate the roar.

SHORT TO SPEAK

At Historical Society Talk. As the second of its evening series on Old Houses in Princeton, The Historical Society will sponsor a talk by architect William H. Short Thursday, November 17, at 8 in the convocation room of the Engineering Quadrangle on Olden Street. Mr. Short, who is a partner in the firm Short and Ford, will speak on Guernsey Hall and Nicholson House, two 19th century structures that have been saved from demolition and transformed into apartments.

Guernsey Hall, built around 1850 by the noted architect John Notman for Richard Stockton Field, is a large stone building in the "Italian Villa" style. In 1912 it was altered and enlarged by the architectural firm of Cross and Cross. Recently Mr. Short was responsible for converting the mansion into five luxury apartments.

Nicholson House, which stands on the corner of Library Place and Mercer Street, was called the "Haunted House" because of its dilapidated condition. Designed in 1850 by Princeton's 19th century architect-builder Charles Steadman, it underwent major changes in the 1880's and during the past year has been renovated by Short and Ford into five apartments.

Mr. Short will describe the changes in each building and discuss the prevailing architectural ideas of the period which produced the changes. He will also discuss the steps that were necessary to adapt each house to modern use. Admission is free, and the public is invited.

COOKBOOK AVAILABLE

From Scholarship Foundation. The Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation has put together a cookbook called "A Recipe Sampler" as a fund raising venture. The book is filled with recipes from the community and is illustrated with sketches by area artists.

"A Recipe Sampler" is expected to be ready for Christmas gift giving. A Publication party, co-chaired by Betty Cleveland, Custis Clark and Dolores Allaire, will be held December 4 from 2 to 4 in the Valley Road Library. The public is invited.

The artists, who have also been invited, have donated their original sketches for the divider pages for auctioning at the party. The book will be available at $5. For information call Mrs. Cleveland, 924-5398, Mrs. Clark, 921-6753, or Mrs. Allaire, 924-3322.

FILM PLANNED

By Woman's Place. "How We Got the Vote," a film presentation on the struggles of the suffragettes to obtain voting rights for women, will be shown at The Woman's Place, 14½ Witherspoon Street, Wednesday, November 9 at 8.

According to the Woman's Place, the film shows how the suffragettes demonstrated women's ability to organize, investigate, administer and to do intellectual work. There will be refreshments and discussion, and a 50 cent donation will be requested.
